General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges, but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for equipment bonds are based on average maturities

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained The custom however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on.

Note.—Owing to the present demoralized condition of the municipal bond markets, brokers and dealers find it difficult, and in many cases, almost impossible to make quotations for municipal bonds. Bid prices, especially for the smaller municipalities, are practically out of the question and sales or terms are simply a matter of bargaining between buyer and seller. In fact the absolute lack of demand often causes good bonds to be offered at almost any price.

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF JUNE—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

June, the closing month of the half-year, was an eventful period in more ways than one. It marked the holding of the National Conventions of both the great political parties in this country for the selection of the candidates to be voted upon for President and Vice-President of the United States at the National election in November, and the declarations of the party platforms of principles for the government of the country, and it made several other records of considerable consequence, the most of them along desirable lines, though nevertheless leaving much to be wished owing to political controversies which often were bitter and acrid and which in the end had to be adjusted in a spirit of compromise, which it was hard to reach. This last has reference more particularly to the passage of the tax bill for raising more revenue in order to reduce a budget deficit of the Federal Government of large size. The balancing of the budget was finally accomplished, and yet there was a question whether it would prove fully adequate under the continued shrinkage in Government revenues due to the ever-widening character of the depression in trade and business, besides which Congress subsequently passed a number of other measures, mainly for relief purposes, making further drafts upon Treasury cash and foreshadowing further additions to Government indebtedness. A sense of great relief was experienced, however, by the failure of the Soldier Bonus proposition, which would have required a separate outlay of over $2,000,000,000. As noted further below, this bill passed the House of Representatives but was killed in the United States Senate.

The latter part of the month new banking troubles developed in Chicago growing out of the closing of some 40 banks in that city, all except one or two of them in the outlying districts of Chicago. This led eventually to runs on the big banks in the loop district, the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., with which General Charles G. Dawes is connected, being the worst sufferer, but some of the other large banks also becoming the subject of "runs," especially the First National Bank of Chicago, with its affiliate, the First Union Trust & Savings Bank, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. The crisis was surmounted by the extension of financial assistance in amount of $95,000,000 to the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., $80,000,000 of this being obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (as the head of which General Dawes had resigned the early part of the month); $10,000,000 more being supplied by a group of Chicago banks, and $5,000,000 by a group of New York banks through Mortimer N. Buckner, President of the New York Clearing House Association. The facilities of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank were freely availed of in the carrying out of the plan of assistance. In their condition statement for the week ended Wednesday night, June 29, the 12 Federal Reserve banks combined showed an increase in the amount of Federal Reserve notes outstanding of $139,932,000, and on examination it appeared that $117,025,000 of the whole increase had occurred at Chicago. The Chicago Reserve Bank showed an increase in that week in its holdings of United States Government securities from $210,845,000 to $287,380,000, and an increase of from $7,843,000 to $20,258,000 in its holdings of acceptances purchased in the open market. These Chicago bank troubles are also discussed in our review of the money market further along in this article.

TERMINATION OF EUROPEAN BANK WITHDRAWALS OF GOLD FROM THE UNITED STATES.

In a financial sense, the most important event of the month, overshadowing by far every other development, was unquestionably the termination of the European withdrawals of gold which had been in progress for so long, and had also been assuming growing magnitude, finally reaching such proportions the early part of June that they could not be considered otherwise than as startling. The end came with dramatic suddenness—came at the very moment, when to the outsider, they appeared to be getting alarming by reason of their magnitude. At that very moment, however, the climax had been reached and occasion for further solicitude was removed. This happened just at the middle of the month. On Tuesday afternoon, June 14, the New York Reserve Bank, in its daily statement of the gold movements for the day, reported gold exports of $5,235,400 for that day and in addition showed almost $50,000,000 more gold set aside, by means of earmarkings, for foreign account, and hence for later shipment. The exact increase in the earmarked stock on that day was $49,995,100. Thus in a single day over $55,000,000 had been lost out of the country's stock of the metal, and this came after huge withdrawals and engagements of the metal for export on preceding days. Among those long apprehensive as to the ultimate outcome of the heavy drain upon the gold reserves of the Federal Reserve banks and of the country, alarm now deepened. But it quickly appeared from official statements that the strain and the drain were now over. The foreign banks engaged in repatriating home their balances and credits, their gold holdings and their investments, had through these latest huge gold takings reached virtually the end of their capacity further to denude the gold supplies of the country. The Bank of France in particular had completely exhausted its balances here. This entirely altered the aspect of the latest colossal withdrawals of the metal. The end had now been reached and the country could accordingly breathe easier, as it quickly did. Though the greater part of the long-continued outflow of the metal had been conducted wholly without regard to the course of the foreign exchange market, being made in pursuit of a deliberate policy to recall home, as a matter of safety, the balances and the gold held here, the foreign exchange market nevertheless made quick response to the change in the situation and on June 15, foreign exchange rates at New York on the Continental centres of Europe sharply declined, nearly all of them to figures below the point at which gold could be shipped at a profit and dropped to still lower levels for the remainder of the month. The New York Federal Reserve Bank, in discussing the termination of the gold movement, made the following comment:

"The outstanding development in the financial situation during the past month has been the virtual completion of the repatriation of the funds of foreign central banks which accumulated in this country a few years ago. The termination of this movement left the amount of short-term foreign funds in this market substantially less than the amount of American funds employed abroad. After the middle of June, gold exports from the United States were almost entirely confined to shipments of gold which had previously been taken out of the gold stock of this country by earmarking transactions, and there were small imports of gold from Latin America and Far Eastern countries and Canada, so that the monetary gold stock of the United States rose slightly.

"The gold losses of early June were largely offset, in their effect on the position of member banks, by continued purchases of Government securities by the Reserve banks, which during the month as a whole amounted to about $230,000,000. Consequently, the member banks were under no pressure as a result of the gold movement, and continued to hold substantial excess reserves."

The New York Federal Reserve Bank also made the following interesting analysis of the International movement of short-term funds, which is well worth reproducing here.

International Movement of Short-term Funds.

"An unprecedented outward movement of short-term foreign funds from this country during 1931 is indicated in a report recently issued by the Department of Commerce. This movement, amounting in the net to $765,000,000, was the result of a withdrawal of $1,275,000,000 for foreign funds from this market which was offset in part by a reduction of $510,000,000 in American funds employed abroad. The details of this flow of funds are presented in the following table:

	Dec. 31 1930.	Dec. 31 1931.	Change.
Due to Foreigners—
Foreign deposits with American banks	1,640,000,000	1,022,000,000	—618,000,000
Acceptance credits and advances and overdrafts from foreigners	51,000,000	47,000,000	—4,000,000
Short-term invest. of Foreigners in:
American acceptances	792,000,000	303,000,000	—489,000,000
U. S. Treasury bills and certificates	86,000,000	39,000,000	—47,000,000
All other short-term loans	168,000,000	51,000,000	—117,000,000
Total	2,737,000,000	1,462,000,000	—1,275,000,000
Due from Foreigners—
American deposits abroad	294,000,000	125,000,000	—169,000,000
Advances and overdrafts to foreigners	212,000,000	279,000,000	+67,000,000
American short-term invest. abroad	94,000,000	57,000,000	—37,000,000
Other short-term loans	323,000,000	310,000,000	—13,000,000
Acceptance credits to foreigners	879,000,000	521,000,000	—358,000,000
Total	1,802,000,000	1,292,000,000	—510,000,000
Net short-term indebtedness to foreigners on banking account	935,000,000	170,000,000	—765,000,000

"The decline in foreign short-term funds in this market was brought about chiefly by a withdrawal of deposits amounting to $618,000,000 and a reduction of $489,000,000 in foreign holdings of dollar acceptances. This movement occurred largely during the period immediately following the suspension of gold payments of Great Britain on Sept. 21, and resulted from the policy adopted by a number of foreign central banks of converting their foreign assets into gold, as well as from a loss of confidence on the part of private foreign investors in investments outside of their own countries.

"The reduction in American funds abroad took place primarily through a decline of $358,000,000 in the volume of dollar acceptances originating under credits granted to foreigners. This decline was indicative in part of the difficulty encountered by American accepting institutions in extending credits to foreigners in view of the disturbed financial conditions and the foreign exchange restrictions which existed in a number of countries, but it was associated also with the marked shrinkage in the value of world trade. Smaller declines were shown in American deposits and short-term investments abroad, while an increase occurred in advances and overdrafts granted to foreigners.

"The repatriation of foreign funds in 1931, together with a smaller outflow in 1930, reduced the amount of short-term foreign funds in this country by more than half—from more than three billion dollars at the end of 1929 to less than one and one-half billion at the end of 1931.

"This huge reduction in the amount of foreign funds in this market was offset only to a small extent by withdrawals of American funds from abroad, yet the United States had a net gain through gold movements and earmarking transactions of about $100,000,000 during the two years. In 1931 the $765,000,000 reduction in the net short-term indebtedness to foreigners was accompanied by a net gold loss through shipments and earmarking transactions between this and other countries of only $175,000,000. This indicates that the reductions in foreign funds have been absorbed to large extent in meeting payments due the United States on the balance of merchandise and other transactions and on long-term indebtedness to this country.

"Although comparable figures are not available for a later date, information that has been reported to this bank has indicated a further rapid outflow during the first six months of 1932, so that the amount of foreign funds now on deposit or employed in short-term investments in this market is believed to represent little more than a reasonable amount of working balances.

"The amount of American short-term funds employed abroad has also shown some further decline during the first half of 1932, but the total, including funds employed in Central European and other countries which cannot be withdrawn under present circumstances, is now much larger than the amount of foreign funds remaining in the United States."

THE NOMINATIONS FOR PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT BY THE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC PARTIES IN NATIONAL CONVENTION ASSEMBLED.

The quadrennial conventions of the two great political parties for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States and the submission of platforms of principles naturally attracted a great deal of attention. In the case of the Republican Convention, the renomination of Herbert Hoover for President and Charles Curtis for Vice-President was very much in the nature of a foregone conclusion. It certainly was in the case of President Hoover, though as regards the Vice-President there was some discussion at one time of replacing him with a younger man. The Convention might have been stampeded for General Charles G. Dawes, who formerly held the office of Vice-President and who had just retired as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Mr. Dawes is always a picturesque figure and on that account it was felt that his selection as the party's candidate for Vice-President would add strength to the ticket. But Mr. Dawes put a quick end to the movement by declaring that he would not accept the nomination even if tendered to him, and that left the field once more to Vice-President Curtis. As to the Republican platform, there was really no controversy with respect to anything except the prohibition amendment, and as to that a resolution was adopted intended to pacify the militant wets who have been steadily gaining ascendency within the party fold, while at the same time attempting to placate the drys who still constitute a numerous element within the party. The result was that neither the drys nor the wets felt satisfied and, as a matter of fact, both were keenly disappointed. Mr. Hoover took an active part in the formulation of the platform through the presence of half a dozen Cabinet members in order to secure the precise wording and phraseology desired by him in that plank of the platform. The resolution does not commit the party to a repeal of the prohibition amendment. Mr. Hoover would not go as far as that. It does, however, declare for a resubmission of the question to a popular referendum. This was the only plank in the platform that excited any controversy and the only plank which was discussed on the floor of the Convention, where it led to some bitter and acrid talk. The platform, which was exceedingly verbose and extremely lengthy, indulged in the customary praise of high tariff duties. On banking and finance the declarations were clear and unmistakable, the platform saying: "The Republican Party established and will continue to uphold the gold standard and will oppose any measure that will undermine the Government's credit or impair the integrity of our National Currency. Relief by currency inflation is unsound in principle and dishonest in result. The dollar is impregnable in the marts of the world to-day and must remain so. An ailing body cannot be cured by quack remedies. This is no time to experiment upon the body political or financial." As a matter of record we insert here the prohibition plank because of the interest which it commands. It should be stated that at 1.30 a. m., June 16 (the Convention was in session on June 14, June 15 and June 16), a prohibition plank by minority members of the Resolutions Committee, which called for a direct repeal, was rejected by a vote of 681 to 472.

The Eighteenth Amendment.

The Republican party has always stood and stands to-day for obedience to and enforcement of the law as the very foundation of orderly government and civilization. There can be no national security otherwise. The duty of the President of the United States and of the officers of the law is clear. The law must be enforced as they find it enacted by the people. To these courses of action we pledge our nominees.

The Republican party is and always has been the party of the Constitution. Nullification by non-observance by individuals or State action threatens the stability of government.

While the Constitution makers sought a high degree of permanence, they foresaw the need of changes and provided for them. Article V limits the proposals of amendments to two methods: (1) Two-thirds of both Houses of Congress may propose amendments; or (2) on application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the States a national convention shall be called by Congress to propose amendments. Thereafter ratification must be had in one of two ways: (1) By the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States. (2) by conventions held in three-fourths of the several States Congress is given power to determine the mode of ratification.

Referendums without constitutional sanction cannot furnish a decisive answer. Those who propose them innocently are deluded by false hopes; those who propose them knowlingly are deceiving the people.

A nation-wide controversy over the Eighteenth Amendment now distracts attention from the constructive solution of many pressing national problems. The principle of national prohibition as embodied in the amendment was supported and opposed by members of both great political parties. It was submitted to the States by members of Congress of different political faiths and ratified by State Legislatures of different political majorities. It was not then and is now not a partisan political question.

Members of the Republican Party hold different opinions with respect to it and no public official or member of the party should be pledged or forced to choose between his party affiliations and his honest convictions upon this question.

We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal, for the American nation never in its history has gone backward, and in this case the progress which has been thus far made must be preserved, while the evils must be eliminated.

We therefore believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provision of which, while retaining in the Federal Government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow States to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the Federal Government to protect those States where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the States by Congress, to be acted upon by State conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of Article V of the Constitution and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative.

At the Democratic National Convention Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York State, was from the first the leading candidate and proved the successful candidate. But there was bitter opposition to him by Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate for President four years ago. And the Smith faction remained uncompromisingly bitter to the end. It was plain even before the balloting began that Mr. Roosevelt had a majority of the delegates, but it has been the rule at Democratic conventions for 100 years that a candidate must have a two-thirds vote to get the nomination and the Smith faction hoped to defeat him in that way. The Roosevelt leaders, to guard against their candidate slipping up on that account, proposed to do away with that rule, but that excited so much opposition on the part even of many of the Roosevelt adherents, that the idea was abandoned and Mr. Roosevelt himself was prompted to issue a statement saying that he did not desire to have the rule abrogated at this year's Convention and would not be satisfied to have the nomination by a mere majority vote. This attitude really strengthened the Roosevelt cause and on the first ballot taken after an all-night session which lasted until the early hours of Friday morning, July 1 (the Convention opened on Monday, June 27), Mr. Roosevelt received 666¼ votes, while a two-thirds majority called for 769 1-3; at the second ballot taken immediately thereafter he received 677¾ votes, and at the third ballot 682 79-100 votes. The Convention then at 9.12 a. m. Friday morning adjourned until 8.30 o'clock Chicago time Friday night. When the delegates then reassembled and the fourth ballot was taken, former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo appeared on the platform and swung the delegates from California and Texas (who had come to Chicago pledged to the Speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington, John N. Garner, but who had been released from their pledge by Mr. Garner) over to the Roosevelt column, adding 90 votes to Mr. Roosevelt's total, and this started a rush of other delegates to the Roosevelt bandwagon—all but the Smith contingent, who remained firm in opposition. The fourth ballot, therefore, showed a total for Mr. Roosevelt of 945 votes, while under the two-thirds the number required for nomination was 769 1-3. The number received by Mr. Smith was 190½, besides which there were a few scattered votes for Governor Ritchie of Maryland, Newton D. Baker and Governor White and former Governor Cox of Ohio. Mr. Smith, with the aid of Tammany, received 63 of the 94 votes of the New York delegation, the whole of the 32 votes from New Jersey, the whole of the 36 votes of Massachusetts, the whole of the 16 votes of Connecticut, and likewise Rhode Island, besides 17 of the 51 votes of Ohio, 14½ of the 70½ votes of Pennsylvania, and 2 of the 26 votes of Wisconsin. At the final session of the Convention on Saturday, July 2, John N. Garner was nominated for Vice-President by acclamation. Mr. Roosevelt, in an airplane, journeyed all the way to Chicago to accept the nomination in person.

As for the Democratic platform it was noted for its brevity comprising only about 1,400 words, in sharp contrast with the Republican platform which was of extreme length. The main point of controversy in the case of this platform, as in the case of the Republican platform, was the repeal of the prohibition amendment in the Federal Constitution. The prohibition plank in this case declared for outright repeal. Not only that, but, pending repeal, declared in favor of immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution. The prohibition plank in full which was adopted at the Convention by the overwhelming vote of 934¾ to 113¾ reads as follows:

"We favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"To effect such repeal, we demand that the Congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the States called to act solely on that proposal.

"We urge the enactment of such measures by the several States as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the States.

"We demand that the Federal Government effectively exercise its power to enable the States to effectively protect themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws.

"Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue."

The Democratic platform also took sharp issue with the Republican platform on the tariff. It declared reform of the tariff law as one of the indispensable propositions for the relief of the existing distress. The exact wording of this proposition was as follows: "A competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding Tariff Commission, free from executive interference, reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations, and an international economic conference designed to restore international trade and facilitate exchange." It was refreshing to find the old-time Democrat doctrine of a tariff for revenue proclaimed anew. Four years ago when the country was still prosperous, the Democratic platform, because of the assumed virtue of the Republican Party's protective tariff, showed a disposition to hedge on the tariff question. Not so on the present occasion. Nor was the Democratic platform sparing in denunciation of the further tariff barriers created under the Hoover administration, this being one of the acts specifically condemned in the Democratic platform, disapproval being expressed in the following language:

"The Hawley-Smoot Tariff Law, the prohibitive rates of which have resulted in retaliatory action by more than 40 countries, created international economic hostilities, destroyed international trade, has driven our factories into foreign countries, and robbed the American farmer of his foreign markets and increased the cost of production."

Obviously, on the tariff and on prohibition there are sharp issues between the two parties. The Democratic platform, of course, as was to be expected, holds the Hoover Administration responsible for the collapse of trade and business. On that point the platform says:

"In this time of unprecedented economic and social distress, the Democratic party declares its conviction that the chief causes of this condition were the disastrous policies pursued by our Government since the World War, of economic isolation, fostering the merger of competitive businesses into monopolies and encouraging the indefensible expansion and contraction of credit for private profit at the expense of the public.

"Those who were responsible for these policies have abandoned the ideals on which the war was won, and thrown away the fruits of victory, thus rejecting the greatest opportunity in history to bring peace, prosperity and happiness to our people and to the world. They have ruined our foreign trade, destroyed the values of our commodities and products, crippled our banking system, robbed millions of our people of their life savings and thrown millions more out of work, produced widespread poverty and brought the Government to a state of financial distress unprecedented in times of peace.

"The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people and bringing the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial, agricultural and commercial leadership in the world lies in a drastic change in economic and governmental policies."

But how is it purposed to bring about the "drastic change in economic and governmental policies" here declared necessary. The imperative necessity of a revision of the tariff has already been referred to. This was the fourth of 17 propositions advocated. The first three of these propositions were as follows:

"We advocate (1) An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25% in the cost of Federal Government, and we call upon the Democratic party in the States to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result.

"(2) Maintenance of the National credit by a Federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues, raised by a system of taxation, levied on the principle of ability to pay.

"(3) A sound currency to be preserved at all hazards, and an international monetary conference called on the invitation of our Government to consider the rehabilitation of silver and related questions."

"The rehabilitation of silver" here mentioned was tantamount to reviving a dead issue, an issue which was settled back in 1896 when William Jennings Bryan for the first time ran for President. It is to be noted, however, as qualifyingly unfavorable conclusions that on the floor of the Convention a plank for the remonetization of silver offered by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, was flatly rejected, as was a proposition for the guarantee of bank deposits. The Democratic platform is careful to declare opposition to the cancellation of the foreign debts owing to this country, saying: "We oppose cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations." On most other things the two platforms are much alike. Both promise unemployment relief, and relief for agriculture, and commit themselves in favor of one thing or another to which the other party would not think of taking exception.

The new revenue bill, imposing increased income and corporation taxes, and providing for new taxation in the way of miscellaneous and excise taxes, &c., was placed on the statute books on June 6, when President Hoover at 5 p. m. that day affixed his signature to the bill as agreed on in a conference. The President's approval of the bill, on June 6, followed the approval of the conference report by the House on June 4 (without a record vote) and by the Senate on June 6 by a vote of 46 to 35. The bill was sent to conference on June 1, to effect an adjustment of the differences between the House bill (passed by that body April 1) and the Senate bill, passed by the latter in the early morning hours (12:25 a. m.) June 1.

Among the more important agreements contained in the report were the following:

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR., DECLARES FOR REPEAL OF PROHIBITION LAW—IN FAVOR OF PROPOSAL OF NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER THAT CONTROL OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC BE LODGED WITH STATES—HERETOFORE A SUPPORTER OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who with his father for years supported the Anti-Saloon League in both its State and National work, declared himself in sympathy with the movement for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. In a letter under date of June 6 to President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, Mr. Rockefeller expressed himself "in complete sympathy" with a resolution proposed by Dr. Butler for incorporation of a declaration in the platform of the Republican Party calling upon Congress to submit the repeal proposal for ratification "by conventions of the people of the several States" in accordance with the Constitution of the United States. In his letter, Mr. Rockefeller stated that "all my life I have been a teetotaler in principle." He noted that "it was at one time reported that our [his father's and his] contributions toward the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment amounted to between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000." In reply he said that "from the year 1900 up to and including the date of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment, the contributions of my father and myself to all branches of the Anti-Saloon League, Federal and State—the only contributions made by us in support of prohibition legislation—aggregated $350,000."

Indicating that the results of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment have failed of the results expected, Mr. Rockefeller asserted that contrary to expectations of advocates of temperance "drinking generally has increased; that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably twofold if not threefold; that a vast army of lawbreakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale; that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashed disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment; that as an inevitable result respect for all law has been greatly lessened; that crime has increased to an unprecedented degree—I have slowly and reluctantly come to believe."

PRESIDENT HOOVER SIGNS OMNIBUS ECONOMY BILL AS AGREED ON IN CONFERENCE—SAVINGS IN FEDERAL EXPENDITURES ESTIMATED BETWEEN $150,000,000 TO $180,000,000—PRESIDENT SAYS BILL FALLS SHORT OF ECONOMIES PROPOSED.

President Hoover on June 30 signed the so-called omnibus economy bill, as agreed on in conference, but issued a statement in which he said he approved it "with limited satisfaction." He added that "it falls far short of the economies proposed by the Cabinet and other executive officers of the Government" and that "it imposes unnecessary hardships on Government employees in minor matters of little consequence economically." The President's statement follows:

"I have signed the Economy Bill with but limited satisfaction.

"First, it falls far short of the economies proposed by the Cabinet and other executive officers of the Government; many items of their proposals which were in turn recommended by committees on economy of the two Houses failed of passage. Also the bill is so framed as to render abolition or consolidation of the most consequential commissions and bureaus impossible of consummation until some months after the next session of Congress.

"Second, it imposes unnecessary hardships on Government employees in minor matters of little consequence economically. Some of these hardships should be remedied at the next session of Congress.

"I believe we can administratively alleviate some of these difficulties and hardships. Every effort will be made to do so."

HOUSE PASSES BILL CALLING FOR CASH PAYMENT OF SOLDIER BONUS—"BEER" AMENDMENTS TO BILL REJECTED IN HOUSE—FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD MAY DIRECT SALE OF BONDS—BILL ADVERSELY REPORTED BY SENATE COMMITTEE AND THEN KILLED.

The House of Representatives at Washington on June 15, by a vote of 211 to 176, passed the Patman bill calling for the immediate cash payment of $2,400,000,000 soldier bonus. On June 16, the Senate Finance Committee reported the bill adversely. The bill was opposed in the Finance Committee by 14 of the 16 members present. Those voting for the adverse report were Senators Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Couzens, Keyes, Thomas of Idaho, Metcalf and Smoot, all Republicans, and King, George, Walsh of Massachusetts, Connally, Gore and Harrison, Democrats. Those voting favorably were Senators La Follette and Jones of Washington, both Republicans. Late in the day on June 17 (8.20 p. m.) the Senate, by a vote of 62 in opposition to 18 in favor, rejected the bill.

ADDITIONS TO LIST OF ORIGINAL PARTICIPANTS IN $100,000,000 BOND POOL—CORPORATION CHARTERED UNDER NAME OF AMERICAN SECURITIES INVESTING CORP.—NAMES OF OFFICERS.

The corporation formed in May by leading banking interests of New York for purposes primarily of bond investment took as its title American Securities Investing Corporation. The officers chosen were: President, Thomas W. Lamont; Chairman of Executive Committee, George Whitney; Secretary, Lansing P. Reed; Treasurer, Longstreet Hinton. The Executive Committee from the banking institutions includes A. H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank; C. E. Mitchell of the National City Bank; W. C. Potter of the Guaranty Trust Co.; J. E. Reynolds of the First National Bank, and A. A. Tilney of the Bankers Trust Co. On June 6 Secretary of State, Edward J. Flynn, granted a charter to the new corporation, capitalized at $100,000,000. Albany advices to the "United States Daily" state:

The Corporation, according to its articles of incorporation, is to "engage principally in the business of purchasing and investing in bonds or debentures or other obligations, which, in the opinion of the board of directors of the Corporation have value as investments, unless and until, in the opinion of the board of directors or the Executive Committee, it is in the interest of the Corporation to sell or otherwise dispose of the same in whole or in part."

The New York "Journal of Commerce" reported that it was stated in informed quarters that the new American Securities Investing Corporation made its initial purchase of securities on June 7.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS—THE LAUSANNE AND GENEVA CONFERENCES.

Constructive steps toward a better adjustment of international financial and political relations were not lacking during June, but their outcome still remains obscure owing to the delicacy of the negotiations in progress. At Lausanne, Switzerland, the delegates of 13 nations interested in German reparations gathered June 16 to discuss a final revision of the payments due from the Reich under the Versailles treaty. It was made broadly apparent by the leading delegations that the political payments would be cancelled completely if there were any assurance that similar treatment would be given the war debts owed by the former Allies to the United States Government. The question of a formula which will eliminate reparations as a practical matter, while still protecting the Allied Governments in the event the United States does not cancel the war debts, seems to be the main concern of the Lausanne delegations.

Disarmament discussions at the General Conference in Geneva, not far from Lausanne, were electrified, June 22, by a sweeping proposal of President Hoover for a universal reduction of land, sea and air armaments by nearly one-third. This suggestion, placed before the gathering by Hugh S. Gibson, United States delegates, effected a radical change in the course of the conference, which was started Feb. 2. The debate for the four and one-half preceding months was desultory and futile, with the discussions centering around minor details of disarmament procedure. Even the visit of Secretary of State Stimson to the meeting in April failed to produce even the semblance of progress. Mr. Hoover's bold proposal, on the other hand, made a profound impression not only on the conference but on opinion throughout the world, and it is evident that the disarmament debate will centre around the suggestion. Other Powers have displayed extreme caution in their pronouncements on the plan, and it is not yet certain that it will prove acceptable as a world policy.

Although these major projects still await the final action of governments and the verdict of world opinion, much good has already been done by the consideration accorded them. It is evident that practical elimination of reparations from the political horizon and a drastic downward adjustment of world armaments would go far toward restoring the confidence so sadly lacking at present. The Lausanne negotiations are, perhaps, of more immediate significance, owing to their intimate connection with world economy. When the delegations gathered at Lausanne, there was little general hope of an actual settlement of the reparations problem in any definitive manner. In anticipation of the meeting conversations were held in Paris between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, and Premier Edouard Herriot of France. After a day of discussions these Ministers issued a joint statement, June 12, reflecting "a community of views which permits envisaging just and effective solutions at the Lausanne conference, as well as re-enforcement of confidence and the maintenance of peace among peoples." The chief aim of the conference, Mr. MacDonald said later the same day, would be to remove a good many of the economic troubles of Europe and put an end to the dislocations from which everybody has been suffering for ten years."

When the gathering started on June 16, Prime Minister MacDonald was elected Chairman, and in an opening address he pleaded earnestly that the delegations approach the difficult task not only in a spirit of sober reality, but with courage and determination. "My appeal to this conference," he said, "is to fear nothing but weakness and to issue from these council chambers and from wherever our further work is done bold proposals which by their very character will command the support of the whole world." Speedy action in reaching agreements was urged by the Prime Minister, in accordance with the findings of the Young plan advisory committee. He reminded the delegations that the Young plan committee recommended as long ago as last December "the adjustment of all intergovernmental debts to the existing troubled situation of the world, without delay, if new disasters are to be avoided."

The immediate problem presented by the imminent end of the Hoover moratorium was disposed of by a joint resolution, or "stop-gap agreement" to suspend reparations payments until the end of the Lausanne conference. This resolution was debated and adopted at a private plenary session on June 17. "Noting," it stated, "that certain reparations and war debt payments fall due July 1, we are of the opinion that in order to let the work of the conference proceed undisturbed and without prejudices to the solution which may ultimately be reached, execution of payments due the powers participating in the conference with respect to reparations and war debts should be reserved during the period of the conference, which the undersigned intend should complete its work in the shortest possible time. It is understood that services on market loans will be unaffected by this decision. The undersigned governments declare that they are prepared to carry out this understanding, and invite the other creditor powers taking part in this conference to adopt the same course." Signatories to this agreement are Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan.

Chancellor Franz von Papen, of Germany, arose to reply to this step by the major creditor powers, it is understood. He welcomed the declaration, an Associated Press dispatch stated, as "the first visible proof that the nations concerned intend to take the complete and final action necessary to solve the reparations problem." In a moderate speech which contained no hint of any endeavor by Germany to repudiate its obligations, he asked the world to cancel the reparations payments entirely. "Palliatives and adjournments are definitely a thing of the past," he said, "and we must take the last step. The grave task of this conference is to shake off the fatal vicious circle and sweep a path toward the positive collaboration which alone can assure a brighter future. Reparations have shown themselves to be abhorrent. Experience excludes the possibility of recommencing the payments. A new trial would end in a new defeat. Reparations were originally intended for reconstruction, but now they are a means of destruction." The situation in Germany, he continued, was such that German youths are turning to radicalism through despair. It may prove necessary, he indicated, for Germany to declare a moratorium on interest and amortization payments on private external long-term debt of Germany.

Premier Herriot of France spoke next, and he agreed that Germany is not able to continue reparations payments for the present. He asserted, however, that cancellation "is not the most important problem to be considered here." France would never accept cancellation of reparations while war debts exist, he implied. "We rejoice that the conference already has proclaimed the indissentable principle by which a European settlement can only operate within the world framework—Europe cannot act alone," M. Herriot said. He called attention to the excessive sacrifices which would be imposed on his country by complete cancellation and remarked that the conference must certainly take into consideration the likelihood of a return by Germany to a condition of normal prosperity in the future. In this situation, he said, Germany would be placed in a privileged position by cancellation of reparations. The payments, he maintained, are now an integral part of the European economic system. "It is wrong to think that sudden cancellation would restore economic equilibrium," he added. "To do this it is necessary to establish security. There is no political peace without economic peace, and vice versa. More important than debts and reparations is the modification of tariffs, quotas and other trade restrictions. We ask for our share only in the spirit of justice which we wish for every nation."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain spoke for Great Britain. The suspension declaration, he said, "pledges our united efforts and establishes the best conditions under which a solution may be sought." He pointed out that Chancellor von Papen had not in any way attempted to disclaim the validity of the German obligations under The Hague agreements, but that circumstances have arisen which make it impossible for Germany to resume payments in July. "The payment of vast intergovernmental obligations which carry with them no corresponding return in goods or services," he continued, "cannot be exacted without consequences disastrous to the whole economic fabric of civilization. The war debts due Britain amount to over £2,000,000,000. To sacrifice our claim to this vast sum is no light undertaking. But so fully convinced are we that only by radical measures can we restore that confidence without which the wheels of credit cannot be induced once more to revolve freely, that we should be prepared to take our share in the general wiping out of the slate, provided all other governments concerned do the same."

These preliminary statements were in every case probably designed as much for "home consumption" as for the enlightenment of the delegations at Lausanne. They were followed by a series of quiet personal exchanges in which Prime Minister MacDonald took the leading part in his position as Chairman of the gathering. Views of the leading delegations were outlined more specifically, thereafter, in formal statements, issued one after the other during the second week of the meeting. The French outline, presented June 21, was the first to be issued. It was notable for the concession that all reparations payments must be suspended for at least one or two years, and perhaps longer, until normal economic conditions return. Firm opposition was expressed, however, to complete elimination of the German payments on the ground that this would transfer "the problem of distress" from German to Allied shoulders. In connection with the temporary suspension of payments, moreover, the French held it indispensable that "at the proper time the United States should recognize the generosity of the European States toward Germany by a parallel effort toward America's European debtors." At the end of the suggested moratorium the Young plan schedules should be revised, the statement indicated, and a radically reduced sum charged against Germany, part of it destined, if necessary, to cover the debts of the European governments to the United States.

The first direct conference between the French and German leaders occurred June 24, and it was apparently carried on in a most amicable spirit. The early results, however, were not considered too encouraging. Premier Herriot is reported to have asked bluntly whether Germany is prepared to resume reparations payments on any scale whatever after the current period of depression ends. Chancellor Franz von Papen is reported to have answered with equal frankness that he could not agree to further payments. The German leader indicated that the very prospect of resumption would tend to prolong the economic difficulties, while the attempt to make payments would provoke a fresh crisis. He made it clear, however, that the German Government is prepared to discuss anything else, provided reparations were formally cancelled. Economic advantages to the French were hinted at, it is said, and also participation by Germany in general plans designed to foster world recovery. The two leaders parted on this note, it is understood, and they proceeded to their respective capitals over the following week-end for consultations with their respective Cabinets.

Financial experts at Lausanne continued, in the meantime, their studies of the suggestions made at the conference in connection with the hoped-for settlement of the reparations problem. One of the most interesting plans, reported June 24 by the correspondent of the New York "Herald-Tribune," called for the creation of a European reconstruction fund, to be utilized for the protection of European currencies and their maintenance on the gold standard. "Among a mass of corrective measures, such as economic pacts, agreements for tariff reductions, industrial privileges and financial aid, this idea of a common fund to buttress Europe's monetary stability is understood to be commanding particular attention," the correspondent said. "It is stated authoritatively that the idea of a Basle reconstruction fund is also linked to a proposal whereby the nations gathered here would commit themselves to attacking tariff barriers and to associating in a general plan for European aid and economic co-operation along definite lines." In a further dispatch on the following day the correspondent again referred to the "broader program for Europe's economic recovery, a part of which may be realized here but the more detailed application of which will have to be prepared by the experts during the summer and then laid before the projected world economic conference at London." This fund, it was pointed out, would provide a means for avoiding direct reparations payments, while still making it possible for Germany to contribute to the general good of Europe.

Further official exchanges of views took place between the French and German delegations on June 27, and the days thereafter. Both delegations were inclined to stiffen their attitudes as a result of communications with their home Governments, and the first full-fledged "crisis" of the conference was thus reported brewing. Prime Minister MacDonald again intervened and his persuasions were not unrewarded, it is said. Further examination of all possibilities was inaugurated, and the discussion centred specifically, as June ended, on the proposal to settle reparations finally by means of a lump sum payment by Germany into a "European cash box" or reconstruction fund, to be administered through the Bank for International Settlements. The amount of this proposed settlement was reported at between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000, with the payments to be made after the moratorium of several years' duration suggested at the beginning of the conference. At French insistence, it was indicated, much consideration was given likewise to the formulation of a "safeguard clause," which would protect the former Allied Governments in the event the United States took no action toward reducing or canceling war debts.

The Hoover proposal for a one-third reduction in world armaments was placed before the Geneva gathering June 22 by Hugh S. Gibson, head of the United States delegation, and it was announced at the same time in Washington by Mr. Hoover to a hastily assembled group of press correspondents. The announcement was preceded by a midnight conference in the village of Morges, near Lausanne, between Mr. Gibson and Premier Herriot of France, and a further meeting at Lausanne between Mr. Gibson and Mr. MacDonald, held June 19. It was at first assumed that the preliminary consultations were as much concerned with the war debts owed by the former Allies to the United States as with disarmament, but vigorous denials from Washington disposed of such suggestions.

Mr. Gibson produced a sensation in Geneva, when he announced before a meeting of the general committee of the Disarmament Conference June 22 that he had a communication from President Hoover to place before the delegations. An equally profound impression was occasioned when Mr. Hoover announced the text of the plan in Washington. The plan, the President said, calls for general reductions of land, sea and air armaments on an inter-connected basis, with the understanding that no arm could be disassociated from the others. Headway must be made, the President said, against the mutual fear and friction arising out of war armaments, which kill human confidence throughout the world. While maintaining practically adequate forces for self-defense, it is possible to "add to the assurance of peace and yet save the people of the world from 10 to 15 billions of wasted dollars during the next ten years," he declared.

Five principles were enunciated by Mr. Hoover as guides for the disarmament discussion, and on the basis thus laid down he proposed "that the arms of the world should be reduced by nearly one-third." The principles are: "First, the Kellogg-Briand Pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the Nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for self-defense. Second, this reduction should be carried out, not only by broad general cuts in armaments, but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of attack. Third, the armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other, and, generally speaking, such relativity should be preserved in making reductions. Fourth, the reductions must be real and positive. They must effect economic relief. Fifth, there are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all inter-connected. No part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other."

To these general principles and proposals Mr. Hoover subjoined specific provisions based in part upon previous discussions at the Geneva conference. In regard to land forces, he suggested the reduction of that part of the existing armament which can be considered offensive as distinguished from the purely defensive land armament. Thus, total abolition was proposed of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns. Land armies should be reduced one-third, over and above the so-called police component, Mr. Hoover held. As a practical basis of measurement, he suggested that the German police component of 100,000 troops, as prescribed in the Versailles Treaty, be accepted by all nations for determining their respective police needs. The formula derived from application of this basis to the 65,000,000 population of Germany would need corrections for Powers having colonial empires, the President said. In regard to air forces, he proposed total abolition of bombing planes and prohibition of all bombardment from the air. In regard to naval forces, he proposed that the treaty number and tonnage of battleships be reduced by one-third; that the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers be reduced by one-fourth; that the treaty tonnage of submarines be reduced by one-third, and that no nation shall retain a submarine tonnage greater than 35,000. In conclusion, Mr. Hoover stated that the effect of the plan would be to make enormous savings in the cost of new construction and replacement of naval vessels and in the operation of all land, sea and air forces. "I know of nothing that would give more hope for humanity to-day than the acceptance of such a program with such minor changes as may be necessary," he said.

A further statement was issued at the White House later, Wednesday, in which it was explained that the United States would not act alone under the proposal, but only upon the acceptance of all the other governments. Our own army is already much below the "police component" standard suggested, and it would not be further decreased, but we would join in the abolition of tanks, bombing planes, chemical warfare and large mobile guns, the statement said. The naval proposal would be of much future significance to the United States, as it would relieve us of a large part of the building program under discussion, it was pointed out, but it would not interfere with present construction and would not result in reduction of personnel for two or three years. Savings in expenditure to the United States in construction and operation are computed at a total of about two billions of dollars during the next ten years, the statement continued. "Disarmament," it was added significantly, "has never been considered in connection with debt questions. It has no relation to them whatever, either directly or indirectly. No such suggestion has ever been made by any American official."

This proposal was received quietly by the other delegations at Geneva. They responded one by one in a cautious spirit, with the exception of the Italian representatives. Foreign Minister Dino Grandi announced unconditional acceptance of the plan on the part of the Italian Government, and indicated that it was welcomed with great satisfaction in Rome. Most of the leading delegates were absorbed with the conferences on reparations at Lausanne, and the Hoover proposal thus received less attention for some days than would otherwise have been the case. Special Cabinet meetings were held on the following week-end to consider the suggestion. An indication of the British reaction was afforded June 27, when Stanley Baldwin, as Acting Prime Minister, replied to a question in the House of Commons. "There may be other far-reaching proposals by other countries," Mr. Baldwin said. In Paris, Premier Herriot read a carefully prepared statement to press correspondents, June 25, in which he indicated that the French Cabinet opposed much of the plan and preferred the French program of security by means of an international police force under the League authority. In Tokio the Supreme War Council was reported to have reached a decision, June 29, that the plan is "absolutely unacceptable."

CHARLES G. DAWES RESIGNS FROM RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION—CORPORATION ISSUES $250,000,000 ADDITIONAL NOTES WHICH ARE PURCHASED BY THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The resignation, effective June 15, of Charles G. Dawes as President of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was made known on June 6, when his letter to President Hoover, indicating his desire to relinquish the post, was made public, along with the President's letter expressing regret at Mr. Dawes' decision. In his letter Gen. Dawes stated that the work of the Corporation "is now well on its way with loans already authorized for about $700,000,000 and its operations are now properly systematized and effective."

On June 23 President Hoover appointed Gardner Cowles Sr., publisher of the Des Moines, Iowa, "Register," to be a member of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Dawes, and on June 28 the Senate confirmed the nomination.

The issuance by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of $250,000,000 additional notes, to be subscribed by the Treasury, was announced on June 17. The new issue, running for six months, will mature Oct. 27 1932 and will bear interest at 3½% annually. The Corporation's announcement said "the notes will be purchased by the Secretary of the Treasury as the funds are required by the Corporation." Indicating that the new issue will bring the total subscribed by the Treasury to $1,000,000,000, Washington advices June 17 to the New York "Times" said:

The Treasury made a first subscription of $500,000,000 to the Corporation's capitalization, the full amount originally authorized by Congress. Issuance of the first series of notes aggregating $250,000,000 was announced by the Corporation a month ago and were also taken over by the Treasury. The Corporation is still able, if demand requires, to issue an additional $1,000,000,000 of the notes under the provision of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act authorizing it to issue debentures up to three times the amount of its capitalization.

GOLD DELEGATION OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS ASKS WORLD TO GO BACK TO GOLD STANDARD—THREE CONDITIONS SET UP—FREE MOVEMENT, SOLUTION OF WAR DEBTS AND AGREEMENT ON PRINCIPLES URGED—BALANCED BUDGETS NEEDED.

A return to the gold standard as the world's "best available monetary mechanism" was strongly recommended by the League of Nations gold delegation, on June 9, in its final report. The Geneva correspondent of the New York "Times," in a preliminary statement regarding the matter, went on to say:

The publication of this document, which is regarded as the most important the delegation has yet issued, and which is divided into three parts totaling 75 printed pages, is being rushed so it will appear before the Lausanne Conference begins.

The first part, from which the foregoing citation is taken, deals with the breakdown of the gold standard and how to restore it. "Impressed by the practical difficulties and dangers" of regulating currencies not on a common world basis and "the very great desirability of an agreement" on a common world standard, it rejects silver, bimetallism and other commodity standards since "whatever their theoretical advantages, their universal adoption presents a very grave if not an insuperable practical difficulty in present times" and gold at its worst is just as good.

Three Conditions Specified.

The report lays down three main conditions, however, as necessary before restoration of the gold standard can be expected. All involve international action as follows:

1. "The restoration of a reasonable degree of freedom in the movement of gold services on debts."
2. "A satisfactory solution of the problem of reparations payments and war debts."
3. An agreement concerning "certain guiding principles in respect to the working of the gold standard system."

It also regards the balancing of public budgets as essential.

The second part deals with the workings of the gold standard and the desirability of avoiding violent fluctuations in the purchasing power of gold. It declares "the world's total stock of monetary gold, apart from any considerations as to distribution among different countries, has at all times in recent years been adequate to support the credit structure legitimately required by world trade, and the rapid decline of prices which began in 1929 cannot be attributed to any deficiency in the gold supply considered in this sense."

Regarding the suggestion that action be taken to raise prices, it deems a rise desirable, but does not expect "monetary policy alone to adjust the price level, which is influenced by many" non-monetary factors. Where credit contraction has gone to extremes it declares it "imperative" for central banks to do what they can to check it "and sometimes to take the initiative in encouraging the freer use of credit." But it concludes that "it will be difficult to restore prices and standard of living" until "there is some clearing of the atmosphere of international distrust" and world trade is freer.

Finds Stabilization Impossible.

Regarding the future it declares it impossible to stabilize prices, and says what relative stability is possible is not achievable by monetary policy alone.

It recommends a reduction in the present reserve ratios of central banks and a revival of a modified form of a gold exchange system.

All eleven members of the delegation signed the report, but it really represents mainly the views of George E. Roberts, Vice-President of the National City Bank, and the French, German, Italian, Dutch, Czech and Polish members.

In the third part Chairman Jansen of Belgium, Sir Henry Strakosch of South Africa and Sir Reginald Mint of India signed a long statement entirely dissenting from the others in the analysis of the causes leading to the abandonment of the gold standard, which they attribute chiefly to "maldistribution of monetary gold reserves" beginning early in 1929. They agree with the first two remedies but diverge sharply on the third and on national action.

GRAIN MARKETS WEAK IN FACE OF BAD OUTLOOK FOR WINTER WHEAT IN THE UNITED STATES.

The grain markets continued exceedingly depressed, and wheat prices in particular suffered a big further decline, notwithstanding the accounts regarding the growing winter wheat crop in the West became increasingly unfavorable, foreshadowing a big reduction in the winter wheat yield, especially in comparison with the extra bounteous production of the previous season. The Agricultural Bureau at Washington on June 9 gave out its customary estimates regarding the condition of the different crops as of June 1 and this showed that there had been a further turn for the worse during May. The production of winter wheat was now placed at only 410,669,000 bushels, or 30,000,000 bushels less even than the promise of May 1, when the prospective crop was placed at 440,781,000 bushels. This compared with an actual harvest of winter wheat in 1931 of 787,465,000 bushels, a shrinkage, it will be noted, of roughly 377,000,000 bushels. The June 1 condition was given as 64.7% of normal as against 84.3% on June 1 1931 and a 10 year average condition of 77.2%. The decrease occurred principally in Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, where it was stated the prospective yield had been further reduced by continued deficient moisture, temperatures above the average and damage from Hessian fly. It was pointed out by the Department of Agriculture that a crop of 410,669,000 bushels not only would be 48% less than the record crop of 787,465,000 bushels in 1931, but 25% less than the average annual production of 548,632,000 bushels for the five year period of 1924 to 1928. The average yield per acre in 1932 was put at only 12.7 bushels, compared with 19.2 bushels in 1931 and a ten year average of 14.8 bushels. Prospects for the spring wheat crop, on the other hand, which had been near to a complete failure in 1931, were much better, though at the very best the increase there could offset only in relatively small part the big loss in the winter wheat region. No report of the indicated production of spring wheat is made until July 1. The condition on June 1 1932 was reported at 84.5% of normal or about 2% below the 10 year (1919-1928) average condition of 86.8%. In 1931 the June 1 condition was only 67.9%. The outlook for the oats crop in this country was also reported as unfavorable. The general condition of oats on June 1 1932 was reported at 78.9% of normal as against 84.7% on June 1 1931 and a 10 year average (1919-28) condition on June 1 of 83.7%. The condition was estimated as below the average in practically all sections of the country except in the Northern corn belt and in the Western States. In the South, it was stated, oats had been injured by March freezes while in other areas development of the crop had been retarded by lack of moisture.

The price of wheat had been declining quite notably before the appearance of this agricultural report and the report had the effect of only temporarily steadying price levels for a day or two when further declines occurred. July wheat in Chicago from 58c. June 1 had dropped to 49⅜c. June 9. A recovery to 52¼c. June 11 occurred and then the price moved down to 46⅞ June 22; the close June 30 was at 47¾c. against the opening price on June 1 of 57¾c. showing a drop of fully 10c. a bushel during the month. The September option which had opened June 1 at 59½c. closed June 30 at 50½c. At Winnipeg the course of wheat was similarly downward, the July option falling from 63¼c. June 1 to 53⅛c. June 30 and the September option from 65⅜ c. June 1 to 56c. June 30. July corn in Chicago which opened June 1 at 31¼c., close June 30 at 28⅛c., while September corn at Chicago which had opened at 33½c. June 1 closed June 30 at 30⅞c. July oats at Chicago dropped from 22⅞c. June 1 to 18⅞c. June 30 and closed on the latter day at 19⅜c. September oats at Chicago dropped from 22⅞c. June 1 to 19½c. June 30 with the close at 19¾c. Chicago advices June 9 stated that as new oats in Iowa were worth only 7 to 8c. a bushel on the basis of prevailing prices on the Chicago Board of Trade it was expected that a considerable acreage of oats in that State would not be harvested.

Canadian press advices from Ottawa June 6 published in the "Montreal Gazette" said that while no council meeting had been held on that day, a large number of Cabinet ministers being out of the city, the expectation that the order in Council extending the operation of the wheat bonus of 5c. a bushel from June 15 to June 30 the Government had nevertheless decided upon the extension and the order was "as good as passed" according to the Minister of Trade and Commerce. It was also pointed out that one of the reasons given for a break of over 4c. a bushel in the Winnipeg price of wheat on Saturday, June 4, was the rush of farmers to get the remainder of their wheat to the elevators in time to obtain the benefit of the bonus. This bonus on wheat was only for one year's duration and in order to have it cleared up before the end of the old crop year on July 1 the date of termination had been originally set at June 15.

The maximum proportion of foreign wheat permitted to be used in the milling of flour in France, which had been further increased from 45% to 50% by a decree of May 28, was reduced again from 50% to 45% by a decree published in the French "Journal Officiel" for June 17, the reduction becoming effective June 24 1932. A further reduction was announced in Associated Press advices from Paris July 1 which stated that a decree fixing 35% as the limit of imported wheat that might be used in the manufacture of foodstuffs in France had been published in the official journal on that day. The Department of Commerce at Washington on June 27 announced the receipt of a cablegram from the acting commercial attache in Berlin saying that effective July 1 the normal (general) rates of the German tariff (of 25 reichsmarks per 100 kilos, legal net rate) would be restored on imports of wheat. For some time, it was pointed out, imports of wheat by certain millers under specified conditions had been subject to the reduced rate of 11.25 or 18 reichsmarks per 100 kilos according to the purpose for which the grain was to be used. The Spanish Government which in May had authorized the additional importation of 100,000 tons of wheat bringing the total authorized up to 250,000 tons, in June authorized a further increase to 300,000 tons.

Authority for the distribution of 40,000,000 bushels of Government-owned wheat and 500,000 bales of Government-owned cotton by the American National Red Cross and other organizations was contained in a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives at Washington on June 16. A committee amendment which was agreed to before the measure was adopted, would permit the use of some of the feed for livestock in the 1932 crop failure areas. The wheat and cotton could be exchanged for various other commodities under another amendment adopted. The measure was approved by the House without a record vote, and then went to the Senate where it was still pending at the close of the month.

SUGAR PRICES ENJOY A SHARP RISE—COFFEE PRICES SHOW A MODERATE REACTION.

The sugar market, so long depressed, enjoyed a spurt of great activity in June with a sharp rise in prices. The New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange, under date of June 24, stated that the third week of the bull market in sugar had been featured by the broadening of the trading in sugar and evidence of increasing public interest in the sugar market. Wall Street houses which had been out of the sugar market for the past few years had now become active on both sides of the market. The July option had been the most active. Its high was 0.88c. a lb., compared with 0.57 at the start of the bull movement three weeks before. It closed on Friday, June 24, at 0.83c. a lb., 5 points under the high. The latest news, it was stated, was that the Cuban Sugar Institute had decided to support the plan to withhold 800,000 tons from export to the United States, originally earmarked for sale here, until the price reached 1½c. a lb. The present price of raw sugar, c.i.f. was 0.90c. a lb. The sugar trade estimated, the Exchange said, that such action would cause a tight situation in the United States for the remainder of the year in regard to available supplies. Under date of July 1 the New York & Coffee Sugar Exchange, bringing conditions down a week later, said:

> After fluctuating in a range of about 10 points during the week, the sugar market closed just about where it started. Futures were one point lower to one point higher for the week on the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange. Early strength was based on reports that the Cuban Sugar Institute was favorably considering a plan to segregate an additional 800,000 tons of sugar from the United States export quota. Traders bought on the assumption that such a step would create a tight situation in regard to available United States supplies for the year. The sudden news that the Institute had abandoned the plan because of the inability to come to terms with American bankers who were expected to contribute 600,000 tons caused a sharp break in the market. Later in the week the market turned up on reports that the segregation plan was being discussed again. Sugar interests throughout the world urged the Cubans to follow through with the plan because of its almost inevitable prospect of causing improvement in sugar values.

Associated Press advices from Havana June 13 stated that under a decree signed by President Machado and published on that day, sugar shipments to the United States in 1933 would be limited to the amount shipped in 1932 less surpluses existing Dec. 31 1932. In other words, the amount of sugar that would be available for export from Cuba to the United States during 1933 would be the total amount imported into the United States during 1932, less the amount of carry over at the end of 1932. Furthermore if there is any excess of stocks in the United States Atlantic and Gulf ports over what is considered the normal stock of 300,000 tons on Jan. 1 1933, such excess would also be deducted from the United States allotment. Cuban raw sugar on June 3 was still quoted at 0.60c., this having been the first sale to a refiner in the United States since May 11 when there was a sale at the same figure. Thereafter the price rose rapidly, but mainly on shipments to the United Kingdom, and on June 24 there were sales for the United States at as high as 0.92c. and 0.95c.; on June 28 there were sales at 0.88@0.85c., and also sales to the United Kingdom at a parity of 0.82½. and 0.80½c. f.o.b. Cuba. The wholesale price of refined sugar in this city was marked down June 8, by all the leading refineries from 3.75c. to 3.70c., which compared with the previous all-time low established on April 18 1914 of 3.67½c. But at the close of business June 15, there was an increase to 3.80c. and at the close of business on June 17 a further increase to 3.90c.

There was a slight weakening in the price of coffee though Brazil continued its policy of large scale destruction of surplus stocks of coffee. Destruction of coffee in Brazil passed the billion pound mark during the week of June 18 according to statistics issued at the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. The latter reported that the total coffee destroyed by June 18, either burnt or dumped into the sea, had amounted to 7,786,000 bags or 1,027,752,000 lbs. There are 132 lbs. in a bag. The coffee destroyed had an approximate value of $35,000,000. Another 7,000,000 bags, it was stated, had already been purchased and was scheduled for destruction. The original plan contemplated a total destruction of 18,000,000 bags.

The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange on June 7 announced that practically all of the "restricted" coffee which was bartered by the Brazilian Government for 25,000,000 bushels of American wheat in August 1931 had arrived in New York. Although the barter was 1,050,000 bags of coffee for 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, the Brazilian Government agreed to ship to the Bush Terminal Co., an additional 225,000 bags of coffee to cover freight, storage and insurance costs, &c., making the complete total of 1,275,000 bags of coffee to be shipped to this country in connection with the coffee-wheat deal. Frank C. Russell, head of the coffee firm of Frank C. Russell & Co., of this city, was appointed Manager of the New York office of the Grain Stabilization Corporation to market the coffee which the Corporation acquired in exchange for wheat. No. 7 Rio for spot delivery in the New York market was quoted at 7⅞c. on June 30, against 8½c. May 31; 7¾@7⅞c. April 30; 7¼c. March 31; 7¼c. Feb. 29; 7⅛c. Jan. 30; 7@7¼c. Dec. 31; 6½@6⅝c. THE TEXTILE TRADES REMAIN DEPRESSED, MILLS PURSUING RIGID POLICY OF CURTAILMENT OF PRODUCTION—AMERICAN WOOLEN CO. MAKES DRASTIC REDUCTIONS IN PRICES OF MEN'S WORSTED.

All the different branches of the textile trades remained more or less depressed notwithstanding that production was kept rigidly in hand. The price of raw cotton, however, after a further decline the early part of the month to new low levels, decidedly improved the closing part of the month. Trade estimates pointed to a probable reduction in acreage of about 7@ 8% and in addition large sections of the South were apparently suffering from too much rain, while considerable damage from the depredations of weevil was feared. Underfertilization was also reported as showing its effect, it being reported that the lack of normal fertilization was causing slow growth and hampered the plant in its advance to maturity to escape the weevil. The early part of the prices of cotton remained weak and on the New York Cotton Exchange the quotation for spot cotton June 9 dropped to 5.00 c., said to be the lowest in the history of that Exchange. The latter part of the month, however, under the unfavorable developments noted a rapid rise occurred and on June 30 the quotation was marked up to 5.80 c. The beginning of the month some failures in the cotton trade served to accentuate the prevailing weakness. Thus a cablegram June 3 from London to the New York "Journal of Commerce" reported that intense nervousness prevailed on the Manchester and Liverpool Cotton Exchanges as the result of the suspension of three important firms within a week's time. The suspensions included Hornby, Hemeldyk & Co. on May 28 and Albrecht & Co. and J. R. Brooke & Co. within the last few days. It was also stated that the weakness and nervourness incident to the cotton failures was spreading to the rubber, coffee and other commodity lines. As the result of the general curtailment policy pursued cotton consumption in this country showed a heavy decrease. The U. S. Census figures, made public June 14, showed only 332,439 bales of lint and 50,178 bales of linters consumed in this country during May 1932 as compared with 465,363 bales of lint and 66,930 bales of linters in May 1931. The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York reported the production of cotton cloth during May at 183,717,000 yards, or at the rate of 45,929,000 yards per week. This was 10.4% less than the weekly rate for April and 24.8% less than the weekly rate for February, which was 61,086,000 yards. Billings during May were 170,485,000 yards, or 92.8% of production. Sales were only 145,756,000 yards, equivalent to 79.3% of production. Stocks on hand at the end of the month were 315,448,000 yards, representing an increase of 4.4% during the month. Unfilled orders on May 31 were 193,637,000 yards representing a decrease of 11.3% during the month. There was no change in curtailment policy during June and the New England mills were reported as operating at only about 40% of capacity. A number of plants, both in the North and South shut down completely pending indications of improvement.

The market for wool and woollen goods was in a similarly depressed state, and on June 2 the American Woolen Co. in order to meet price cutting by independent worsted mills made drastic reductions in goods prices. The reductions ranged from 10c. to 25c. per yard on serges, 17½c. to 30c. on unfinished worsteds, 7½c. to 25c. on cheviots, 20c. to 30c. on mixtures and 12½c. to 22½c. per yard on fancy worsteds. Wool goods remained unchanged. The New York "Journal of Commerce" in its issue of June 3 in discussing the cut in prices to the lowest figures heard of, it was stated, on men's wear worsted fabrics since 1914, made the following comment.

The new quotations reflect the drop in wool values that has occurred in the last six weeks as well as economies in labor costs and general overhead. Competitors last week-end reduced prices on worsted suitings, forcing the big company to meet the challenge. Prices on woolen suitings, topcoatings and overcoatings continue unchanged.

Other Mills to Cut.

Most of the large worsted producers are expected to announce price revisions in the next few days. The readjustments are expected to put an end to the period of price irregularity that began immediately following the fall openings and came to a climax last week-end with the announcements of reductions of 10 to 20% on several lines of standard worsteds and cheviots that come into direct competition with the cloths featured by the American.

Indicative of the price slashes effected by the American are the new prices named on cloths that have long served as a barometer for worsted values. The famous 8020 serge which opened the season at $1.47½ is now quoted at $1.22½, a drop of 25 cents per yard. No 414 cheviot which opened the season at $1.07½ was reduced yesterday to 85 cents, a drop of 22½ cents per yard or more than 20%.

The market had been expecting reductions on worsteds by the American, but the extent of the reductions caused considerable surprise. The list was issued at 5 o'clock last night and the trade will be notified to-day. Market observers are of the opinion that the new prices represent rock bottom as far as worsted suitings are concerned. Experienced millmen declared yesterday that worsteds cannot be made cheaper than the prices at which they are now offered.

It is believed that the new prices will give clothing manufacturers and other users of wool products the confidence needed to go ahead with preparations for the next season. For weeks manufacturers have been withholding orders for fear of price changes. With quotations at bed rock, much pent-up business should be released in the next month.

The price of raw silk showed some improvement during June after the severe collapse of previous months. Tokio advices June 4 contained the important announcement that at a conference of officials of the Agriculture and Finance Departments of Japan on that day it had been decided to cancel the contract with the Asahi Silk Co., agents for E. Gerli & Co. of New York, and to purchase the accumulated silk amounting to 98,310 bales for the Government at 450 yen (about $146) a bale. Bonds for 45,000,000 yen (about 4,6$100,000) would be issued, it was stated, to cover the purchase. The advices stated that the silk would not be marketed for one or two years and would then be disposed of at the rate of 1,000 or 2,000 bales monthly. The Japanese Government's experiment in attempting to stabilize the silk market, entered upon in April, had met with great opposition and the Japan Sericulturists' Association had adopted a resolution calling upon the Government to cancel the deal and to buy the silk involved. The effect of the abrogation of the contract was almost instantaneous and the New York "Evening Post" on June 6 reported that prices on the National Raw Silk Exchange on that day had scored their sharpest rise of the year on the news. On June 30 Japanese double extra 13-15 deniers were quoted at $1.12½@$1.17½ against $1.10@$1.15 May 31; $1.35@$1.40 April 30; $1.50 @$1.55, Mar. 31; $1.67½@$1.70 Feb. 29; $1.87½@$1.90 Jan. 30; $1.85@$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.20@$2.25 on Nov. 30 and also on Oct. 31, and comparing with $2.25@$2.30 Sept. 30; $2.50@$2.55 on Aug. 31; $2.30@$2.40 on July 31; $2.35 @$2.40 on June 30; $2.22½@$2.27½ May 29; $2.35@$2.40 April 30; $2.55@$2.65 March 31; $2.70@$2.75 Feb. 28 and $2.85@$2.95 Jan. 31, and 4.70@$4.75 on Jan. 31 1930. In the 20-22 deniers, Japanese crack double extra were quoted at $1.17½@$1.22½ June 30 against $1.10@$1.15 May 31; $1.32½@$1.37½ April 30; $1.42½@$1.47½ March 31; $1.70@$1.80 Feb. 29; $1.95@$2.00 Jan. 30; $1.85@$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.30@$2.32½ Nov. 30; $2.10@$2.15 Oct. 31; $2.25@$2.35 Sept. 30; $2.45@$2.55 Aug. 31; $2.25@$2.30 July 31; $2.40@$2.50 June 30; $2.07½@$2.12½ May 29; $2.25@$2.30 April 30; $2.50@$2.60 March 31; $2.65@$2.70 Feb. 28; $2.85@$2.90 Jan. 31 1931, and $4.60@$4.65 on Jan. 31 1930.

An announcement issued on June 11 by the Department of Commerce at Washington stated that the world's first Rayon Futures Market had been established at Fukui, Japan, and that trading had started the previous month according to a report from Consul J. Holbrook Chapman, Nagoya, Japan. Further price reduction of 10c. a lb. on Viscos process rayon yarns were announced on June 20 by the Tubize-Chatillon Corp. This revision, said the New York "Times," of June 21 brought the 150-denier first quality style to 55c. a lb. and the 100-deniers to 70c. The acetate yarn numbers were cut 15c. a lb., bringing the 150 deniers to 75c. and the 75-deniers to $1.10. Prices of crude rubber continued to rule low, ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery in New York were quoted June 30 at 2 9-16c. and 2 11-16c. asked against 2 11-16c. bid and 2¾c. asked May 31; 3 1-16c. asked April 30; 3 1-16c. bid and 3 3-16c. asked Mar. 31; 3⅝@3 11-16c. Increases in prices of rubber tires and tubes designed to absorb the excise tax which was scheduled to go into effect June 21 were announced on June 17 by eight large tire companies. The N.Y."Sun" in its issue of that night added:

They are the Goodyear Tire & Rubber, which took the initiative; the B. F. Goodrich Co.; General Tire & Rubber; Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.. and the Seiberling, Mohawk, Falls and India companies. The United States Rubber Co. is also expected to follow.

The advances, which had been forecast recently, range from 11 to 15%. They apply to automobile and truck tires and tubes and also to solid tires. It is admitted that the increase is somewhat greater than the rate of taxation, but the excess is intended to absorb not only the cost of additional accounting but also other taxes which hit tire companies as well as other industrial corporations, such as higher postage, the tax on bank checks and increased profits taxes.

A. W. Barry, Vice-President and General Sales Manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., said: "The company's plant at Cumberland, Md., is operating 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Factory inventories and dealers' stocks have been so depleted that this schedule will have to be maintained for a considerable time to come."

The only major tire company not to follow the advance is the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. The silence of that company is interpreted to mean that the Firestone management is waiting to see what action mail order houses will take on tire prices.

Officials of Sears, Roebuck & Co. have stated that the tire and tube prices published in its midsummer catalogue, issued late in May, will hold good on all mail orders during the life of the catalogue, which expires Aug. 31. The Sears, Roebuck tire price policy must be decided in time for insertion in the next general catalogue, which will be issued in July.

Shipments of tires to dealers and to large consumers have been stepped up sharply since enactment of the new revenue Act in anticipation of price increases to attend the levy of an excise tax in order to replenish stocks of tires at the low price level still prevailing. That demand, in addition to drawing on factory inventories of finished tires and tubes, has necessitated increases in production schedules.

It is forecast that, after the tax goes into effect, the shipments will fall off and production schedules will be curtailed because inventories will be large and some time will be required to work off accumulated stocks.

STEEL DEPRESSION BECOMES STILL MORE PRONOUNCED—NON-FERROUS METAL ALSO WEAK—AN IMPORT TAX OF FOUR CENTS A POUND IMPOSED ON COPPER UNDER THE NEW REVENUE LAW—WITHDRAWALS FROM COPPER EXPORTERS, INC.

The depression in the steel trade became further intensified and in its issue of June 30 the "Iron Age" reported the steel mills of the country engaged to only 15% of capacity, as against 16% the previous week, 18% two weeks before and 20% three weeks before and 25% in the middle of May. The "Age" in its comments added that the further shrinkage in ingot output, with additional declines in steel scrap prices, had given emphasis to the negative features that had characterized the iron and steel market in recent weeks. The "Age" also said that the indications were that raw steel production would fall to an even lower level before the close of that week. Independence Day shut-downs would be longer and more general than usual. Many steel plants were scheduled to stop operations on Thursday, June 30, and, though some of them would resume immediately after the holiday others would not start up again until the middle of July, while one large independent unit would remain inactive during the entire month. Holiday suspensions would also be the rule for numerous steel consuming plants, although it was doubtful whether consumption had receded as sharply as production. Steel shipments of late had been running heavier than ingot output, since producers preferred to clean up stocks of cold metal rather than start up furnaces for short runs. While there would naturally be some recovery in output after the Fourth of July shut-down, no real upturn was believed possible before September at the earliest. Ford continued to be the main source of steel tonnage among the automobile makers, but a downturn in sales had caused a revision of the production schedule at the Rouge plant, with the likelihood that output in July would be held down at 85,000 motors. The "Iron Age" reported the composite price of finished steel June 28 at 2.087c. the same as a month earlier and comparing with 2.137c. 12 months before. The composite price of pig iron June 28 was figured at $14.01 as against $14.06 a month earlier and comparing with $15.59 at the end of June 1931. The average price of steel scrap June 28 was reported at $6.58 a gross ton against $7.33 a month earlier and $9.17 a year ago.

In the non-ferrous metals the price of copper continued to rule at the extremely low figures reached the previous month. The new revenue bill imposes an import tax of 4c. a lb. on copper from abroad and while at first this appeared to have somewhat of a stiffening effect on price the firmness was not maintained. "Metal and Mineral Markets" under date of June 16 stated that sober second thought on the tariff had caused buyers to take a more conservative attitude and sales volume, which had promised to take on fair proportions showed an actual decline. Copper had sold in moderate volume at both 5⅜ and 5½c. a lb., Connecticut, for fourth quarter delivery. The withdrawal of three of the leading members from the Copper Exporters, Inc., the single selling agency abroad for copper producers, was announced on June 29. It was stated that beginning June 30 they would sell their product outside the organizations. The imposition by the United States of a tariff on copper of 4c. a lb. which went into effect on June 21 was given as the reason for their action. These companies all of which operate outside the United States, were the International Nickle Co., the Chile Copper Co., a subsidiary of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., and the Cerre de Pasco Copper Corporation. After the close of the month some other companies also withdrew. Export prices of copper declined to 5⅛c. a lb. on June 30, said to be the lowest level yet reached. The domestic price of copper was reported unchanged at the close of the month at 5⅜c. a lb. delivered in the Connecticut Valley. This was said to be the first time in several years that copper prices abroad were lower than in the domestic market. Here in New York electrolytic copper was advanced from 5c. a lb. to 5⅛c. on June 3. Lake copper remained unchanged at 5.50c. The price of lead was reduced from 3.00c. to 2.95c. by the American Smelting & Refining Co. On June 29 and the price of lead further declined to 2.75c. on June 30. Tin prices also moved lower the quotation here at N. Y., June 30 being 20.20c. against 20.62½c. June 1. Failure of Lewis Lazarus & Sons, believed to be the largest tin brokers in the world led to the suspension of all tin-trading on the London Metal Exchange on June 6. The firm was established in 1820. Negotiations began almost immediately to form a pool of leading tin interests to take over the tin holdings of Lewis Lazarus & Sons. The purpose was to prevent distress selling of the metal by the smaller firms. On June 7 the Secretary of the London Metal Exchange announced that the pool had already been dissolved and the tin disposed of. The International Tin Committee on June 23 announced that the signatory governments had accepted the scheme known as the modified Byrne plan to regulate production and exports of tin. Under this plan which became effective July 1 production of tin during July and August of 1932 either ceases or is held under control in countries where the ore is produced or ordinarily smelted. After August the ore or metal controlled is released at the rate of 10% a month for 10 months.

PETROLEUM AND ITS PRODUCTS—CALIFORNIA CRUDE OIL PRICE RAISED 25 CENTS A BARREL—GASOLINE PRICES ADVANCED ONE CENT A GALLON IN MANY DISTRICTS TO COVER THE NEW FEDERAL TAX OF ONE CENT A GALLON.

The outstanding development in petroleum and its products during June was the success of the oil producers in California, at the instance of the Standard Oil Co. of California, in agreeing to hold the State's output of crude oil down to a daily limit of 476,700 barrels. This was followed by an advance of 25c. a barrel in the price of California crude oil, raising it to $1 a barrel. In gasoline prices numerous advances occurred, in part as a result of the imposition of a tax of 1c. a gallon imposed under the new revenue law. The per well daily allowable for the East Texas oil field for the last half of June beginning June 17 was fixed at 51 barrels, a reduction of 3 barrels from the allowable in the first 15 days of the month. On July 1 the allowable production was further reduced to 50 barrels a day for the first 15 days of July. In Oklahoma Governor William H. Murray took Oklahoma's oil pro ration into his own hands on June 21 by extending military law so as to include storage tanks and pipe lines and creating a proration board of five members. The Governor asserted that orders of the State Corporation Commission, normal arbiter of proration, were being violated and that oil was being illegally run at night from leases in the Oklahoma City fields. In the following we show the important changes during June in the prices of both crude oil and the refined product:

THE JUNE FINANCING OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

The June financing of the United States Treasury is always important, June being one of the quarterly periods in which the more important financing is usually conducted, though in the large-scale borrowing of the immediate past the Treasury has been under the necessity of doing extensive financing also at other than the regular quarterly periods, an instance of that kind having occurred in April 1932. On the present occasion the quarterly financing was announced late Sunday night, June 5, and comprised the offering of an aggregate of $750,000,000 of new obligations, made up of two issues, namely, (1) of $400,000,000, "or thereabouts," of Treasury notes maturing in three years and bearing 3% interest, and (2) $350,000,000, "or thereabouts," of Treasury certificates of indebtedness running for one year and carrying interest at 1½%. Both the notes and the certificates were dated and bear interest from June 15 1932, the certificates maturing June 15 1933 and the notes becoming due June 15 1935. Unqualified success attended the operation. Subscription books for both issues were opened on Monday, June 6, and the books closed at the close of business the very next day, Tuesday, June 7. Both issues were exempt from income taxes of every description, even the surtaxes. Carrying this privilege, and with the money market congested with funds as perhaps never before, the unqualified success of the offering was a foregone conclusion. It was observed that the rate of interest in the one-year certificates of indebtedness was lower than in the offering of the one-year certificates for $225,000,000 in April, when the rate was fixed at 2% interest, where in the present instance the rate was only 1½% per annum. On the other hand, the rate of interest in the three-year 3% Treasury notes was exactly the same as the rate in the offering of the two-year Treasury notes in April for $225,000,000. Both of the new issues were heavily oversubscribed. For the $350,000,000 one-year offering of certificates bearing only 1½% interest the subscriptions aggregated $1,653,814,000. Of these subscriptions $113,131,500 represented exchange subscriptions in payment for which Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing June 15 1932 were tendered. Such exchange subscriptions were allotted in full. Cash subscriptions were all scaled down on a graduated basis. For the 3% Treasury notes for $400,000,000, running for three years, the subscriptions aggregated $1,143,563,400. Of these subscriptions $134,759,300 represented exchange subscriptions, and, as in the other instance, these subscriptions were allotted in full, the cash subscriptions being scaled down on a graduated basis. The amounts allotted (including the exchange subscriptions) were $373,856,500 in the case of the $350,000,000 offering of certificates of indebtedness and $416,602,800 in the case of the offering of $400,000,000 of three-year 3% Treasury notes, making the combined allotment for the two issues $790,459,300. It should not escape notice that owing to the exceptional demand for short-term funds, the same anomaly was observable as in other recent offerings of Treasury obligations, namely, that the subscriptions for the one-year certificates bearing only 1½% interest were larger than the aggregate of the subscriptions for the three-year Treasury notes bearing twice the rate of interest, or 3% per annum.

To place one-year certificates at such a low rate as 1½% per year would have had to be regarded as quite an achievement except that it was the direct outgrowth of Federal Reserve policy in flooding the country with Reserve credit through large-scale purchases of United States Government securities. When announcing the two new issues in the aggregate of $750,000,000, but for which the allotments reached $790,459,300, as just stated, the Treasury Department said that $324,578,500 would be used in retiring Treasury certificates maturing June 15, but that the remainder would constitute new borrowing and hence would be an addition to the existing public debt. In the case of both forms of obligation it was stated in prescribing the mode of payment, which had to be made on or before June 15, that "any qualified depositary would be permitted to make payment by credit for notes (or for certificates) allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits." Payment by credit meant a corresponding addition to the amount of Government deposits with the member banks, and the privilege was extensively availed of as in the case of former issues of the same kind, and it appears that the total of Government deposits thus created and subject to the call of the Treasury Department aggregated $539,257,000, of which $216,393,306 were on deposit in the New York Federal Reserve District. Drafts upon these deposits came almost immediately, $30,480,000 being called for payment June 21, $21,488,400 June 23, $21,488,400 June 24, $26,072,600 June 27, $44,931,800 June 30, $22,465,900 July 1, $22,465,900 July 2, $43,011,900 July 5 and $43,011,900 July 6, leaving then (this call was made June 30) $263,840,200 still on deposit. The last of the call for repayment of Government deposits arising out of the sale of $244,234,600 3% notes and $239,197,000 2% certificates of indebtedness, both dated May 2, and which deposits aggregated $455,322,000, was not made until June 16, when the final $46,730,200 was called for repayment on June 20.

One new issue of Treasury bills offered for sale on a discount basis also constituted part of the Government's financial operations during the month of June. In the case of the sale of such bills the Treasury is in position to get special advantage from the superabundance of short-term funds which have congested in such great volume in the financial centers, and particularly at New York, as the result in the main of Federal Reserve policy in constantly and very heavily enlarging the volume of Reserve credit afloat through large-scale purchases of United States Government securities by the Reserve institutions. Not being able to find other means of employment for their excess funds in channels of easy liquidity, banks and financial institutions, which constitute the main purchasers of these bills, are willing to buy such bills at such high figures that the return in the shape of discount on the bills yields hardly more than a nominal rate of interest on the investment. As noted in our review for the month of May, the United States Treasury on May 23 placed $60,050,000 of Treasury bills at a price making the average rate of return on a bank discount basis no more than a bare fraction of 1% per annum—in exact figures 0.29 of 1%. On May 27 $100,200,000 more of 91-day Treasury bills had been disposed of on almost an equally low basis, or at least at the extraordinarily low figure of 0.32 of 1%. During June the process of disposing of new issues of Treasury bills at abnormally low rates of return to the purchasers of the bills was continued, and it could not be otherwise since the Reserve banks were adding steadily to the volume of Reserve credit afloat through their purchases of United States Government securities. A new issue of 91-day Treasury bills to the amount of $100,000,000, "or thereabouts," was announced on June 22 by Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary of the Treasury, and it was stated that this issue was intended entirely to refinance maturing bills. The bills were dated June 29 1932 and mature on Sept. 28 1932, and tenders were invited for the bills up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time on Monday, June 27. The tenders aggregated $292,881,000, and the amount accepted was $100,466,000 at an average price of 99.897, or an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 0.41%.

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING JUNE.

The stock market at the very beginning of June enjoyed somewhat of a rally, encouraging expectations that the long-continued shrinkage in market values might have reached its end and that a better state of things could therefore be counted upon. But the upward reaction continued for only two or three days, and then the course of prices again turned downward, and during the remainder of the month new low levels for the year were again reached in nearly all parts of the Stock Exchange list, notwithstanding occasional fitful recoveries, which never were long maintained. In the case of the selected list of stocks which form the basis of the New York "Times" compilations, the lowest level of the month and of the half-year were recorded in the closing days of the month. This is true both of the railroad list and the industrial averages, and of the two combined. The 25 railroad stocks reached their highest average on June 4 at 13.98, and their lowest on June 28 at 10.38, with the close June 30 at 10.51. The 25 industrial stocks touched their highest point on June 16 at 74.02 and their lowest on June 30 at 60.57, with the close on that day at 61.03. For the 50 stocks combined the high of the averages was 44.15 June 16, and the low 35.48 June 30, with the close on that day at 35.77. There were a number of favorable developments which might have been expected to stimulate at least a slight rise, and some of these did play some part in the transient upward reaction which occurred at the beginning of the month, but the lack of any sign of recovery in trade, the constant contraction week by week in steel production (the mills of the country being engaged to only 15% of capacity at the close of the month), the renewed weakness in the grain markets, the poor showing of earnings made by the railroads in their monthly returns (the figures for the month of May, as the statements came in towards the close of June being just as poor as for the months preceding, and in some cases even worse), the constant additions to the companies obliged to suspend or reduce their dividends, and perhaps most important of all the drastic scheme of reorganization to which the St. Louis-San Francisco was obliged to resort in order to meet the requirements of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in order to obtain further financial assistance from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, constituted a budget of bad news which served to offset the advantages that might otherwise have been derived from the favorable developments noted.

Among these favorable developments may be mentioned the passage of the Revenue bill balancing the Federal budget, the organization of the American Securities Investing Corporation (or "bond pool," as it is popularly known) for the purpose of strengthening the bond market, and the killing of the soldier bonus bill (which would have made a further draft on Treasury resources to the amount of $2,400,000,000) by the Senate after it had passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority. Last, but not least, there is to be mentioned the news which came the middle of the month that the gold drain upon the Federal Reserve banks, which had lasted for so long and had developed growing magnitude during the first two weeks of the month (to such an extent as to cause absolute consternation) had really definitely reached its end with these huge further withdrawals in the early days of the month. This was not only welcome news, but was a bright feature in the outlook at a time of general gloom, though the activity of Congress in giving support to measures requiring heavy outlays with possible further increases in the public debt, was still a factor in the situation that had to be reckoned with.

Opening prices on Wednesday, June 1, showed net gains of several points as compared with the closing prices the day before. This was on the news that the United States Senate had the night before speeded the Revenue bill to passage after President Hoover had personally appeared in the Senate Chamber and made a plea for speedy action. As illustrations indicating the favorable reception accorded this action, we may note that Allied Chemical & Dye opened 3¼ points higher; American Can 5⅜; American Tel. & Tel. 2⅞; American Tobacco B 3⅜; Auburn Auto 4¾; Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe 4⅞; Consolidated Gas 2¾; E. I. du Pont 1⅝; General Foods 3½; Liggett & Myers B 3⅞; Union Pacific 4; U. S. Steel 2¼, and Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. 2¾. Weakness, however, quickly ensued, and at the noon hour the market became quite unsettled on heavy liquidation, with American Tel. & Tel. leading in the downward movement, that stock falling from its opening price of 91 to a new low of 85, while U. S. Steel touched a new low of 25¼ after opening at 28. Only a feeble rally occurred just before the closing hour, though the bond market showed a well-sustained advance all through the day. On Thursday, June 2, the importance of the progress made with the tax bill began to dawn upon the Stock Exchange fraternity, and the tendency of prices both in the stock market and in the bond market was strongly towards higher levels; the upward trend was fully maintained on Friday, June 3, on the additional bit of favorable news that the Conference Committees were making rapid progress in adjusting the differences between the two houses, so much so that the bill was likely to become a law by the end of the week. At the half-day session on Saturday, June 4, the market continued its upward course, the announcement the previous evening of the formation of the American Securities Investing Corporation, under the sponsorship of powerful banking interests, proving an additional stimulus to the rise. Quite a number of speculative issues made advances running as high as 4 points, and in some instances even more than that. American Tel. & Tel., American Can, Allied Chemical, United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas and E. I. du Pont de Nemours were features in this rise.

This brief spell, however, may be said to have marked the end of the upward reaction in the opening days of the month. On Monday, June 6, there was active selling which early in the day led to general declines. This was induced by a number of adverse developments such as a sharp break in the wheat market, weakness in the cotton market, and news that the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives had decided to bring the Garner Relief Bill before the House of Representatives the next day. A strong rally led to the recovery of these losses by the end of that day. But on June 7 and June 8 stocks gradually dipped lower. The Garner Bill passed the House of Representatives on June 7 by a vote of 216 to 182, and the local traction stocks were depressed, with Brooklyn-Manhattan especially weak on rumors that the dividend on the stock might be passed as the company had to make provision for a large maturing loan in the early future. Other stocks also manifested a sagging tendency, with the bond market likewise now developing irregularity. On Thursday, June 9, there was a check to the downward tendency, induced by a squeeze of the short interest in Auburn Automobile. This stock shot upward 7¾ points to 45⅞, with the close for the day at 44⅞ against the close of 36¼ the previous day. The rise in this stock led to a pretty general covering of short commitments in other branches of the market, but part of the early advance was lost before the close of the day. Friday, June 10, the market developed further strength on a new squeeze in Auburn Automobile. For a few days now the market showed some evidence of steadiness in the face of a number of adverse features. On Monday, June 13, the House of Representatives at Washington indicated its purpose of securing early action on the soldier bonus proposition for paying out $2,400,000,000 by voting 226 to 175 to discharge the Rules Committee from further consideration. On June 15 it actually passed the bill by a vote of 209 to 176. It then went to the Senate, where the Finance Committee promptly decided to report the bill adversely by a vote of 14 to 2, indicating that the way was blocked for passage in that body, with a likelihood of its being voted down there, which actually happened Friday night, June 17. This was, of course, a favorable development, but it was offset by continued adverse reports regarding the condition of trade and business, and especially the continued contraction in the output of steel. The huge gold exports reported on Tuesday, June 14, on which day $55,000,000 of gold was set aside directly or indirectly for export, was at first also considered a disquieting feature, though views changed when it was announced that these colossal gold exports might be regarded as definitely terminating the gold outflow, since the Bank of France had now withdrawn the last of its large balances held in this country. The holding of the National Republican Convention at Chicago at this time did not have much of an influence on the stock market one way or another, and yet appeared to be viewed with satisfaction as removing an event of consequence in the ordinary course of affairs. Nevertheless, stock prices again developed a reactionary course, and during the rest of the month remained in a decidedly unsettled state, with dealings steadily dwindling. On Saturday, June 18, a break in Sears, Roebuck & Co. on the suspension of dividend payments and a new decline in Auburn Automobile enlivened things. On Monday, June 20, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corp. suffered a break on the omission of the dividend on the common stock, though otherwise the market showed firmness on a limited volume of business, the turnover for the day having reached only 341,080 shares, which was said to be the smallest volume for any day since June 1924. On Wednesday, June 22, Auburn Automobile was again a weak feature, though there was continued apathy, with the drift towards slightly lower levels. Stocks rallied towards noon on news of President Hoover's proposal for a drastic cut in arms. This appeared to have induced some short covering, and the tobacco shares developed a rising tendency, with the result that prices generally moved towards somewhat higher levels.

On Friday, June 24, and immediately succeeding days, the market suffered a sharp setback on reports of the banking troubles in Chicago. On Saturday, June 25, there was a further break growing out of the Chicago banking situation, but the market steadied itself before the closing, thereby canceling most of the early declines, though leaving a few stocks, like American Can, American Tel. & Tel. and Allied Chemical with substantial net losses for the day. On Monday, June 27, some persistent liquidation in a number of special stocks kept the market weak all around, with special selling pressure directed against United States Steel, American Tel. & Tel., Atchison, Allied Chemical & Dye, and E. I. du Pont de Nemours, all of which sold at new low levels. The Chicago banking situation, which had reached an acute stage the previous Saturday, attracted a great deal of attention, especially in view of the declines in some of the Chicago bank stocks, but things now began rapidly to mend at that point. On Tuesday, June 28, dividend action was awaited in the case of a number of stocks which kept the market in a somewhat unsettled state, but announcements regarding the payments on Allied Chemical & Dye and American Can, in both of which cases the old rates of payment were maintained, caught the shorts off their guard and sharp upward spurts in these stocks carried the whole market moderately upward, though the rally soon died out. On Wednesday, June 29, domestic Government bonds displayed a weakening tendency, and the trade reviews showed steel production still shrinking, although already at unprecedentedly low levels. A few issues tumbled to new low figures, but the general market developed some firmness. The improvement continued in a moderate way during the early part of Thursday, June 30, but was lost toward the close on the manifestation of renewed weakness in a number of special stocks such as National Biscuit, E. I. du Pont de Nemours, Procter & Gamble, &c. In the railroad list the disclosures regarding the drastic character of the reorganization of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, which that company was arranging to meet the requirements of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, came as a telling blow.

The volume of trading was very light, the aggregate of the share sales for the month reaching only 23,000,594 shares. After June 15 there was not a single day on which the dealings aggregated as much as 1,000,000 shares. In June 1931 the sales were 58,643,847 shares, and in June 1930 76,593,250 shares. These are the figures for the New York Stock Exchange. On the Curb Exchange the sales for the month comprised only 2,720,768 shares. In June last year the sales were 9,972,998 shares, and in June 1930, 28,128,750 shares. No less than 590 stocks established new low records for the year during the month on the New York Stock Exchange, and 337 new low records on the New York Curb Exchange. American Tel. & Tel. declined from 91⅜ June 1 to 75½ June 28, with the close June 30, 76⅞; Allied Chemical & Dye, after rising from 51¼ June 1 to 55½ June 15, dropped to 42½ June 27, with the close June 30, 45⅞; American Can, after moving up from 40 June 1 to 41⅛ June 15, fell to 29⅝ June 27, with the close June 30 at 32½; E. I. du Pont de Nemours, after touching 30 June 16, dropped to 22¼ June 30; National Biscuit dropped from 32¾ June 4 to 22¼ June 30; U. S. Steel declined from 30⅜ June 4 to 21¼ June 28; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg., after opening at 21½ June 1, touched 24¾ June 16, and then slid down to 15⅝ June 29, with the close June 30 at 16⅜; Auburn Automobile, from 31¼ June 1, spurted to 77⅛ June 16, but at the close June 30 was back to 46; General Motors declined from 10 June 4 to 7⅝ June 30; North American closed at 17 June 30, which was the same as the opening price June 1, but in the interval recorded a low of 13¾ June 2 and a high of 20⅜ June 15; Sears, Roebuck & Co. advanced from 14½ June 1 to 16½ June 3, and then tumbled to 9⅞ June 28, with the close June 30 at 10⅛. In the railroad list Atchison, after rising from 28½ June 1 to 31½ June 16, dropped to 17⅞ June 28, with the passing of the dividend, and closed June 30 at 19; Delaware & Hudson fell from 46¾ June 16 to 34 June 30; New York Central, after opening at 10¾ June 1, touched 8¾ June 2, and then advanced to 14¼ June 16, and closed June 30 at 11¼; Norfolk & Western, opening June 1 at 66, touched 74½ June 6, but then fell to 57 June 27 on the reduction in the dividend of the stock, and closed June 30 at 60.

The course of the bond market was somewhat irregular. United States issues moved higher, and so did a number of the foreign bonds, but railroad issues, except in the case of some of those of the higher grade, developed weakness. In the following table we show the fluctuations during June in the different issues of United States obligations and also in a large list of railroad and industrial bonds and a considerable number likewise of foreign bond issues.

THE MONEY MARKET DURING JUNE 1932.

The money market continued to be characterized by extreme ease, with short-term funds in search of employment in even greater abundance than before, and, as a consequence, whatever changes occurred in money rates during the month were in the direction of still lower levels than before. Certain large movements in the flow of money and of banking credit might have led to some stiffening in rates except for the extreme plethora prevailing, and also by reason of the fact that they were offset by other movements calculated to neutralize their influence. The most important event of the month was unquestionably the further huge outflow of gold from the United States to foreign countries, and this finally reached such proportions that it might have betokened the approach of an acute crisis except that at the moment when the withdrawals of the metal for export reached an especially startling magnitude news came that gold engagements for export abroad might be regarded as having virtually terminated, inasmuch as the Bank of France, which had been foremost in repatriating its large holdings in this country, had now completed its arrangements for transferring its balances back to France. After further heavy takings of the metal from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York continued week after week and day after day, the daily statement of the gold movement issued by the New York Federal Reserve Bank showed on Tuesday, June 14, a loss to the country for that day alone in amount of over $55,000,000. To those not knowing what was going on, this began to look alarming. How much longer could the country stand the strain so long continued, and where and when was it to end? The day's export engagements of the metal amounted to $5,235,400, of which $5,138,000 was for France, $66,400 for Germany, and $31,000 for Switzerland. In addition, roughly $50,000,000 more (in exact figures $49,995,100) was set aside under earmark for foreign account for later shipment. Concurrently, however, there came the announcement, which was given wide publicity in the daily papers the next morning, that these further large gold withdrawals really brought to a close the prolonged loss of gold which the United States had been sustaining since the suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain on Sept. 21 1931. The explanation simply was that the last of the Bank of France's dollar balances in the United States had now been withdrawn, a part being converted into earmarked stock of the metal and part being exported in the form of gold bullion.

This changed the situation completely, the Bank of France no longer being in position to do further mischief along this line, and the same statement really applied to the other Continental countries which had so long been engaged in transferring their balances from this side back to Europe. They, too, had virtually reached the possible limit of withdrawals. In confirmation of the accuracy of this report the rates of foreign exchange at New York on nearly all the leading Continental centers sharply declined on June 15, rendering further exports of the metal out of the question as an exchange operation, though it is to be borne in mind that the greater part of the gold exports had been entirely irrespective of the course of foreign exchange rates, and was in pursuance of a policy on the part of foreign central banks to call back home their holdings of the metal in this country, this policy having been influenced largely by fears that the United States might be forced off the gold standard because of the huge budget deficit of the United States Government, the constant additions to the Government debt, and the numerous projects receiving consideration by Congress for further drafts on the resources of the Treasury. We give full particulars regarding the gold exports from this country during June in our discussion of the foreign exchange market further along in this article, and will only note here that according to the "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, issued under date of July 1, the gold exports during the month totaled to $225,000,000, in addition to which there was for the month a net increase of $29,000,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account, making a combined loss of $254,000,000, though the net loss was somewhat smaller because of $17,000,000 imports of the metal. This further heavy outflow of the metal came on top of the huge gold exports in preceding months.

As a money market influence, these tremendous gold shipments, while highly disturbing so long as they continued, were, after all, of little consequence, since the Federal Reserve banks, through their purchases of United States Government securities, were all the time engaged in adding to the volume of Reserve credit afloat. Between June 1 and June 29 the 12 Reserve banks increased their holdings of United States securities from $1,575,200,000 to $1,800,971,000, and their total of bills and securities of all kinds (which last item may be taken as a measure of the amount of Reserve credit outstanding) from $2,110,424,000 to $2,340,262,000.

The latter part of June a real strain upon the money market might have been occasioned by the banking troubles which developed in Chicago, some 40 banks, all in the outlying sections of the city, with only one or two exceptions, having been obliged to close down during the month, and this having led eventually to runs on the big banks in the loop district of the city. In the case of the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., with which General Charles G. Dawes was prominently connected, and to which he had just returned as Chairman of the Board after resigning his position the early part of the month as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was the worst sufferer. The drain upon it was such that the bank was obliged to raise $95,000,000 in cash in short order, $80,000,000 of this being supplied by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $10,000,000 by a group of Chicago banks, and $5,000,000 by a group of New York banks through Mortimer N. Buckner, President of the New York Clearing House Association. But that was not all. The First National Bank of Chicago, with its affiliate, the First Union Trust & Savings Bank, and of which Melvin A. Traylor is President, likewise suffered a severe run, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. was subjected to a similar experience. An acute stage in the crisis was reached on Saturday, June 25, after which things began to mend rapidly. As far as New York was concerned, however, the effect, aside from the feeling of apprehension which was created, may be said to have been virtually nil, since the gold outflow had now virtually terminated, relieving anxiety on that score which had so long existed. The "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank speaks of a heavy drain on the New York banks having been occasioned for a few days the latter part of the month as a result of the Chicago troubles and some other incidents, and remarks that the New York money market met these demands easily and continued to hold moderate amounts of excess reserves throughout the period. The fact is, Chicago appears to have met the drain very largely from home resources and through the action of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. This appears very clearly from the circumstance that the amount of Federal Reserve note circulation for the 12 Reserve banks combined for the week ending June 29 increased no less than $139,932,000, and that $117,025,000 of this occurred at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

It might be added that the June financing of the United States Treasury appears to have had no trace of influence upon the New York money market. The New York Federal Reserve Bank explains this by saying:

"The Treasury tax period operations centering on June 15 passed with no visible effect on the money market, due principally to the fact that of the $325,000,000 of 2¾% certificates of indebtedness that came due on the 15th, $248,000,000 were tendered in exchange for the new certificate and note issues. Furthermore, there were sizable sales of the new issues for cash, and somewhat more than the usual amount of the matured Treasury obligations remained outstanding after the 15th. Consequently, payments by the Treasury for matured securities, together with interest on the public debt and other ordinary expenditures, did not exceed the receipts for the day and the balances which the Treasury had on deposit at the Reserve banks. The Treasury, therefore, closed its books on June 15 with a small credit balance at the Reserve banks, whereas ordinarily the Treasury finds it necessary to sell special one-day certificates of indebtedness to the Reserve banks to cover its temporary excess of expenditures on the quarterly tax date. The proceeds of income tax collections in the next few days after June 15 restored the Treasury balances at the Reserve banks to at least their normal level."

All this furnishes a proper prelude in any consideration of the money market for the month to what was really the distinctive feature of the month, namely, the lowering of its rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank on June 24 from 3% to 2½%, and, what is more important, an exceedingly drastic cut in its buying rate for bankers' acceptances. Federal Reserve operations, in pursuance of the easy money policy of the system, was directed not alone towards expanding the volume of Reserve credit outstanding, but also, through this latest action in moving down the rediscount rate as the charge for credit accommodation at the Reserve banks. However, this change in the rediscount rates was really of little consequence, as the bulk of the member banks were out of debt at the Reserve Bank, and any change in the rate was on that account of little consequence. Of real significance, however, was the cut in the buying rate for bankers' acceptances. In that case, the rate was cut in a most pronounced way. The Reserve Bank had been maintaining 2½% as its purchasing rate for bankers' acceptances of all maturities, but now at one stroke cut the rate for bills running from one to 90 days to 1%, for 91 to 120 days to 1⅛%, and for maturities running from 121 days to 180 days to 1½%. It is true that the old rate was far above open market rates, and at that figure the Reserve Bank was unable to get any supply of bills. On the other hand, the new basis of rates, and especially the rate of 1% on bills with a maturity up to 90 days, was abnormally low, and that open market rates should have been ruling at the same low figure was evidence that no need really existed for any further supplies of Reserve credit, which latter, indeed, was responsible for the complete demoralization of the entire money market. With this new step of the Reserve Bank open market rates for acceptances took a further downward turn, at first by merely one or two of the acceptance dealers, but eventually by all, and then the Reserve banks succeeded in acquiring a moderate supply of bills. The same situation led to further fractional declines in rates in all branches of the money market.

On the Stock Exchange call loan rates continued to be maintained at 2½%, the rate which had been ruling for so long, but in the outside market call money was available at 1½% at the beginning of the month and at only 1% as the month progressed. Dealings in time loans on Stock Exchange collateral were virtually at a standstill, no demand existing for that form of banking accommodation and the latter part of the month no transactions were reported in the time loans branch of the market. Rates continued to be quoted nominally at 1½% for all dates.

Commercial paper continued in active demand, but with supplies of paper limited, though increasing somewhat. Quotations for choice names of 4 to 6 months maturity were shaded from a range of 2¾@3% the first half of the month to 2½@2¾% the latter half of the month. Names less well known commanded 3%, against the previous 3½%. On some very high class 90-day occasional transactions at 2¼% were reported the latter part of the month and even at 2%. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York on June 23 reported that leading commercial paper dealers showed a total of $111,000,000 of open market commercial paper outstanding on May 31, as against $107,800,000 on April 30 and $105,606,000 on March 31, though this marked the third successive monthly increase in the volume of outstanding paper, the amount nevertheless remained 64% smaller than 12 months before.

Owing to the general downward trend in rates the rate of interest paid by New York banks on deposits of foreign central banks and Governments was on June 13 reduced from 1% to ½ of 1% and the interest on all foreign time deposits lowered from 1½% to 1%. This was in accordance with a ruling made June 10 by the informal committee of bankers which governs the rates paid on foreign balances here. It was pointed out in the daily papers that by this reduction foreign central banks and governments would lose for the first time their preferential standing as depositors, as interest paid on their deposits had always been maintained at least ½ of 1% above the interest on other foreign deposits and the scale of foreign deposit rates in general had usually been at least ½ of 1% above the domestic rates. The new rates involved no change in the interest to be paid on foreign demand deposits other than those of central banks and Governments.

In the rates for bankers' acceptances there was one change during the month and that followed the action of the New York Federal Reserve Bank on June 24 in reducing its rediscount rate from 3% to 2½% and more especially in concurrently marking down the buying rate for acceptances from 2½% for all maturities to only 1% for bills running from 1 to 90 days, to 1 1/8% for bills with a maturity from 91 to 120 days and to 1½% for maturities of from 121 days to 180 days as already related above. In the case of some dealers the reduction in open market rates occurred on the same day with the lowering of rates by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, but in the case of the American Acceptance Council the reduction, which amounted to 1/8 of 1% in both the bid and the asked column for bills of all maturities, did not go into effect until June 30. The monthly report of the American Acceptance Council released June 16 showed a further reduction of $91,624,120 in the outstanding volume of bankers' acceptances during the month ending May 31, reducing the total volume of dollar acceptances to $787,414,750 or a reduction of more than $625,000,000 from the total outstanding at the end of May of the previous year. Robert H. Bean, Executive Secretary, in commenting on the shrinkage in the amount of acceptances had the following to say, among other things.

This is an unusually heavy shrinkage in bill volume even for these quiet times, and while it is recognized that a considerable portion of the reduction was due to the retirement of one large commodity acceptance credit secured by warehouse receipts, the remainder of the monthly volume loss is greatly in excess of normal expectations at this period of the year.

The most important change in the classified acceptance group was in bills drawn against warehouse receipts which decreased $31,000,000, or about the amount of the wheat credit referred to.

Other sizeable changes in the classified totals were in import bills, which declined $14,800,000; export bills, which declined $15,200,000, and bills arising from credits based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries which declined $25,400,000.

It is important to note in this connection that the total of these foreign bills at $268,000,000 is only about half the total which was outstanding a year ago just prior to the news of the beginning of the credit difficulties in Germany. At that time the volume stood at $504,000,000.

With the total of only $787,000,000, the reporting accepting banks were holding on May 31 a total of $510,000,000, of which $396,000,000 were held by banks, bankers and trust companies in New York City. On the same date the Federal Reserve banks were holding for the account of foreign correspondents $179,500,000 and for their own account $35,400,000, while the dealers' portfolios stood at approximately $25,000,000. Thus we have in the hands of four groups, principally in New York City, a total of $750,000,000 out of a total available outstanding volume of $787,000,000.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank in discussing conditions in the acceptance market during the month commented as follows:

"During the first week of June, dealers' purchases of bills exceeded their sales, which were affected by the absence of foreign bank buying, and portfolios rose to the highest level since March. In the next two weeks, the volume of bills offered to the discount market by accepting and discounting banks declined to a small volume, and the portfolios of the dealers consequently were reduced by the excess of sales for this period. In the last week of the month, however, dealers' portfolios rose once again due to sales of bills by Chicago banks, and concurrent with this increase the bill holdings of the Reserve Banks also advanced somewhat in the week ended June 29, reflecting bills purchased from the dealers under repurchase agreement. This was the only material change in Reserve Bank holdings except for a rise around the middle of the month when a block of bills was purchased from the bills held for foreign account by this bank.

"The tendency for accepting and discounting banks to withhold new bills from the discount market, which has been noted for several months, has resulted in the accumulation by the accepting institutions of about two-thirds of all the bills outstanding. The diagram given indicates that at the close of May accepting institutions held $510,000,000 of bills, an increase of $55,000,000 during the month, while the total volume of bills outstanding on May 31 showed a drop of $92,000,000 for the month to $787,000,000. As compared with a year ago when the accepting banks held only one-third of the amount outstanding, holdings of the accepting banks have increased $46,000,000, while the total volume of acceptances outstanding has been reduced $625,000,000, or 44%. Most of the decline in the amount of bills held by investors other than the accepting institutions represents the withdrawal from the acceptance market of foreign banks which converted their funds in this market into gold."

As regards the rediscount rate at the different Federal Reserve Banks the New York Reserve Bank, as already stated, reduced its rate on June 23, effective June 24, from 3% to 2½% and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago on June 24 also announced a reduction to 2½%, effective June 25. None of the other Federal Reserve institutions made any change in their rates during June, all continuing to maintain their existing rate of 3½%.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

The changes in the condition of the Federal Reserve Banks during June were all along the same lines as during the month of May, that is the Reserve Banks continued still further to add to their holdings of U. S. securities, while suffering further heavy losses in gold reserves as a result of the further large exports of the metal, though with this condition changed for the better the last week of the month as the gold withdrawals from the New York Reserve Bank abruptly terminated with the exhaustion of the Bank of France's balances here. Owing to the combined effect of the reduction in the gold holdings and the increase in the holdings of United States Government securities, a further large addition had to be made to the amount of United States securities held as part collateral for the outstanding Federal Reserve notes under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall Act. A sudden large expansion in the amount of Federal Reserve notes in circulation in the week ending June 29 served further to swell the amount of Government securities that had to be used in that way. This expansion in the Reserve notes outstanding in the last week of the month amounted to no less than $139,932,000, and $117,025,000 of the whole occurred in the Chicago Federal Reserve District and grew out of the banking troubles at Chicago. At a result of this expansion the total of Federal Reserve notes in circulation on June 29 stood at $2,755,864,000 as against $2,564,399,000 on June 1. The amount of United States Government securities held as part collateral behind the Federal Reserve notes rose from $263,300,000 June 1 to $606,700,000 June 29. The holdings of United States Government securities kept increasing week after week, and the amount June 29 was reported at $1,800,971,000 as against $1,575,200,000 June 1, showing new acquisitions in amount of over $225,000,000. Acceptance holdings also increased somewhat, and June 29 stood at $63,519,000 against $35,479,000 June 1. The discount holdings, however, were somewhat lower at $469,828,000 June 29 against $494,601,000 June 1. The result altogether was that the total of bill and security holdings on June 29 aggregated $2,340,262,000 as against $2,110,424,000 June 1, indicating an expansion in the volume of Reserve credit outstanding in the four weeks in amount of $229,838,000. Gold reserves fell from $2,751,067,000 June 1 to $2,562,517,000 June 22 and recovered to $2,579,374,000 June 29. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined fell from 61.4% June 1 to 57.2% June 29.

Foreign balances in this country were heavily reduced as the month progressed, due to the conversion of such balances into gold for export, curtailing to that extent the power of foreign banks to withdraw further gold for export abroad. The bill holdings of the Reserve institutions for account of foreign central banks fell from $179,564,000 June 1 to $98,163,000 June 29, and at the same time foreign bank deposits with the Federal Reserve institutions decreased from $74,035,000 June 1 to $8,396,000 June 29.

Brokers' loans by the reporting member banks in New York City, as compiled by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, underwent further contraction, and on June 29 were down to $342,000,000 as against $403,000,000 June 1. The monthly figures of borrowings by Stock Exchange members, as compiled by the Stock Exchange itself, also underwent further contraction, with the total June 30 reported at $243,574,295 against $300,397,222 May 31; $379,016,662 April 30; $533,103,059 March 31; $524,663,758 Feb. 29, and still larger totals at previous dates.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING JUNE.

Sterling exchange turned sharply lower again during June—in fact, it was easier than at any time in several months. The trend of rates was downward even during the first half of the month, while export shipments of gold from the United States were still of huge size and before it became known that these gold withdrawals were now reaching their end, since the Continental centers, and in particular the Bank of France, had definitely arranged for the withdrawal from this side of the whole of its remaining credits at New York. The downward turn in sterling, however, was greatly accelerated the last half of the month, when official confirmation came of the practical exhaustion of French balances in the United States, and, for that matter, Continental balances generally. Foreign exchange dealers pointed out that the declining trend in sterling did not mean that sterling was not in demand. They pointed out that sterling was in demand, and would continue so as a seasonal matter until towards the middle of September. The opinion was expressed that the actual quotable rates for sterling exchange did not afford a reliable index of the demand for the pound in the market, as in a certain sense the market was not free, since the Bank of England, acting either for itself or for the British Treasury, frequently intervened in order to keep sterling from either fluctuating too widely or moving too high. It appeared to be the consensus of opinion that were the market left to itself, sterling exchange would rise constantly, inasmuch as there had now been a complete restoration of confidence in sterling, and, as a consequence, foreign funds were steadily flowing back to London, creating an abundant money supply there. It is to be noted, too, that the London authorities looked with some satisfaction upon easier sterling rates, entertaining the conviction that whether warranted or not the British export trade might derive benefit from lower sterling so long as the country remained off the gold standard. Many bankers openly expressed the view that with the market entirely free, and not influenced by the Bank of England operating through the Exchange Stabilization account, sterling would be ruling considerably higher. Seasonal activity was all the time in evidence, consisting largely of tourists' requirements, which, if not as heavy as in former years, were still of considerable importance.

The outstanding event in sterling exchange was unquestionably the reduction on Thursday, June 30, in the Bank of England rate from 2½% to 2%. This step had been preceded a week earlier by the marking down of the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank from 3% to 2½%. At 2% the Bank of England rate was the lowest since May 1897. The lowering of the British rate had been looked for, for some time, inasmuch as open market rates had been steadily drifting downward. At the end of June open market discounts for short bills were down to only ⅞ of 1% per annum and the rate for three months bills was 1-1/16%; at the end of May short bills in London were quoted at 1%, while the rate for three months bills was even then only 1-1/16%. During the first four days of June, cable transfers on London ranged between 3.68⅛ and $3.70, this latter figure having been reached on June 4 and it marked the high point of the month. On June 14, at the close of which day intelligence came of the virtual termination of gold withdrawals from this country, the range was $3.66⅛ a $3.67½; thereafter with the Continental exchanges weakening, the drift of sterling was strongly downward, and on June 30 the range was $3.58⅞ a 3.60½. The Bank of England kept making large purchases of gold in the London open market after having begun operations along that line in the previous month, and as a consequence was able to report considerable increases in its holdings of the metal week after week. For the week ending June 8 its return showed an increase of £3,119,779, for the week ending June 15 an increase of £2,758,426, for the week ending June 22 an increase of £1,256,452, and for the week ending June 29 an increase of £47,196.

Somewhat of a surprise was occasioned on June 28 by an announcement in the British House of Commons that the British Exchange Equalization Fund had been established the previous Friday when the British Treasury deposited £150,000,000 to the credit of the fund. Major Walter Elliott, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, in replying to a question in the House of Commons that the measure was an accounting transaction, the sum being held in sterling and re-lent to the Exchequer unless or until it was required for any other purpose of the Exchange Equalization Account. As a matter of fact, however, it was common knowledge that the British Treasury and the Bank of England had been operating in the Exchange market through the Stabilization Account since early in May. The opinion was freely expressed in London that the announcement merely represented the formal establishment of the fund and that it was in the nature of a bookkeeping transaction rather than the beginning of a new policy. There have been discussions for some time as to how the Bank of England treated its purchases of gold in the London open market and a London cablegram under date of June 25 to the New York "Times" explained the matter as follows:

> During the week ended Wednesday (June 22) the Bank of England's gold purchases aggregated £1,256,000. This makes the total purchases £15,000,000 since the Bank commenced buying gold on an important scale in the middle of May.
> The gold which has been bought during this six-weeks' period has been figured in the Bank return at the old statutory price, which represented the value of gold bullion in British currency before the currency had depreciated, owing to suspension of gold payments. The difference between that price and the present market value of bullion in terms of British currency represents the premium now obtainable for gold on the open market, which amounts to something over 30%. It is understood that this premium is being debited to the Treasury's Exchange Equalization fund, and that gold purchases now being made by the Bank are directly connected with the operation of that fund.

News came at the close of the month that a British Treasury minute had been signed maintaining the amount of the British fiduciary issue at the existing figure of £275,000,000 until Sept. 30 1932.

On June 30 also news came that the British Government contemplated one of the largest financial transactions in its history. Announcement was made on that day in the British House of Commons that the 5% War loan was to be converted to a 3½% basis. This gave a clue perhaps to what had been influencing financial operations of the Government and the Bank of England. At all events the announcement came immediately after the reduction in the Bank of England rate to 2%, the lowest figure, as already noted, in 35 years, and at a time of extreme ease in money at London, just the state of things essential to the carrying through of financial transactions of that magnitude. The Chancellor of the Exchequer explained that the Government's conversion plan had been kept secret until late in the evening of the announcement, "because of consideration of the hours of business in America." Approximately £2,000,000,000 ($7,200,000,000 at the current rate of exchange) of the war loan 5s was reported as outstanding and the saving in interest was calculated at £30,000,000 per annum. Mr. Chamberlain, the British Chancellor, said the maintenance of the old war time rate, "hanging like a cloud over the capital market," was considered a source of depression and hindrance to the expansion of trade. "The strongest argument for immediate action," he added, "is to be found in the spirit of the country. After a long period of depression we have recovered our freedom in monetary matters. We have balanced our budget in the face of most formidable difficulties and we have shown the strongest resistance of any country to the general troubles affecting world trade. I am convinced that the country is in the mood for great enterprises and both able and determined to carry them through to a successful conclusion." Mr. Chamberlain explained that the Government intended to repay the war loan in cash on December 1 at par, but the holders are invited to convert their holdings into an equal amount of the 3½% loan as from that date. If they assent, not later than July 31, to continue on the loan, they will receive a cash bonus of 1% within 14 days of their notifying the Bank of England. Holders who do not send notification of their acceptance of the offer will be deemed to have accepted it, and holders who desire to receive payment in cash on Dec. 1 must notify the Bank of England not later than Sept. 30.

Canadian Exchange continued at a large discount throughout the month, mostly within narrow fluctuations, though at one time during the month the Canadian dollar (on June 8) was quoted at a discount of 14⅛% and on June 17 the discount was again 14-1/16% and on June 18 and June 20 at 14%. On June 30 the Canadian dollar was quoted at a discount of 12½ a 12⅜% which compared with 12 a 12⅜% discount of the opening day of the month.

We have adverted above to the changes in the gold holdings of the Bank of England. The movement of the metal into and out of the United States was of large magnitude and of large importance as already indicated in repeated remarks in the earlier portion of this article. As the best way of portraying the movements of the metal we quote as follows the usual monthly summary as compiled by the New York Federal Reserve Bank:

GOLD MOVEMENT.

"During the first half of June, the monetary gold stock of the United States was further reduced by $240,000,000, as a result of exports of gold to several European countries and of some additional net earmarking of gold for foreign central banks. After the middle of the month the gold outflow ceased abruptly, due to the fact that the conversion of foreign central bank balances into gold had largely been completed, and there was a small net gain of gold in the last two weeks of the month amounting to about $11,000,000. The exports of the second half of June represented the shipment of gold which had been previously earmarked and consequently had no effect on the total stock of monetary gold in the country. The small increase in the gold stock during that period was due to other releases of gold from earmark, the proceeds of which were disbursed in this country, and to several arrivals of imported gold.

"For the month of June as a whole, gold exports totaled $225,000,000, consisting chiefly of shipments of $108,000,000 to France, $64,000,000 to Switzerland, $26,000,000 to Belgium, $24,500,000 to Holland, and $1,000,000 to England. In addition, there was for the month of June a $29,000,000 net increase in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account. As a partial offset to the export and earmarking loss of gold, a total of $17,000,000 was imported, of which $5,000,000 was received from Canada, $1,000,000 from Uruguay, and $500,000 from Mexico at New York; and $5,200,000 from Japan, $3,800,000 from China, and $630,000 from Australia at San Francisco."

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

In the Continental exchanges the dominant feature was the abrupt termination of the gold withdrawals from the United States after assuming veritable alarming proportions in the first half of the month. The development came very suddenly, as related above, in the earlier portions of this article. On Tuesday, June 14, the daily statement from the New York Federal Reserve Bank showed that gold withdrawals on that day had aggregated over $55,000,000—$5,235,400 having been taken for export, of which $5,138,000 was for France, and that in addition roughly $50,000,000 more had been earmarked for foreign account for later shipment—in exact figures $49,995,100. These large scale withdrawals, coming on top of the huge previous withdrawals, created a feeling bordering on alarm, but official announcements which found wide publicity in the daily papers the next morning quickly made it apparent that the end of the outflow had really been reached, since the Bank of France at least had through the latest withdrawals virtually exhausted its ability to engage further amounts of the metal, it having used up virtually all of the balances it had been holding here. This completely changed the aspect of things and the rates of exchange at New York on Continental centres which had been showing an easing tendency for a day or two previously, now sharply declined nearly all around, mostly below the gold export point. At the same time nervousness with respect to the dollar because of the fear that the United States might have to suspend gold payments which had been such a conspicuous feature during the weeks immediately preceding also disappeared. In other words a restoration of confidence on the part of European investors in the soundness of the dollar was brought about. There was also an accentuation of ease in the European money market, induced no doubt by the returning home to the European centres of the large balances which they had been holding here. In the case of several of the European banks, gold holdings, owing to the large acquisitions of the metal, actually exceeded the outstanding note liabilities. This was true in particular regarding the Bank of France, the Bank of the Netherlands and the Swiss National Bank. In Great Britain the ease in money found reflection in the marking down on June 30 of the Bank of England discount rate from 2½% to 2%, this last being the lowest figure touched in 35 years or since May 1897. On the European continent the reductions in bank rates were less conspicuous and yet the tendency of rates was strongly downward. On June 3 the National Bank of Sweden reduced its discount rate from 4½% to 4%. This was after the National Bank of Denmark had on May 28 reduced from 5% to 4%. On June 7 the Bank of Japan reduced its discount rate from 5.84% to 5.11% and on Monday, June 27 the Hungarian National Bank reduced from 6% to 5% effective July 1, this being, it was stated, the lowest rate at that bank since its foundation in 1924. The Bank of France increased its gold holdings in huge volume week after week. In the return for the week ending June 3 the increase was 700,361,839 francs; in the week ending June 10, 803,595,297 francs; in the week ending June 17, 669,302,978 francs; in the week ending June 24, 456,138,347 francs and in the week ending July 1, 217,000,000 francs. French francs for cable transfers kept steadily moving downward almost the entire month, but they were especially weak on June 16, two days after the completion of French balances here, on which day cable transfers dropped as low as 3.92½, though the same rate was again reached on one or two subsequent dates. On June 30 the range for cable transfers on Paris was 3.92-11/16@3.93, which compared with 3.94⅞@3.95-1/16 June 1. This was considerably below the gold export point, which was estimated at 3.93-¾-⅞. For months France and other Continental countries had been fearful lest the United States be compelled to abandon the gold standard, despite frequent denials of such a possibility made in high official quarters in all the European countries. This fear was now suddenly dissipated. According to Paris dispatches on June 30 the Bank of France and the French Treasury signed a new non-interest bearing Treasury bond of 6,625,000,000 francs to guaranty for the next six months the depreciation in the Bank's holdings of sterling in London valued at about £1,764,706. The new bond is for 250,000,000 francs less than the first treasury bill which the Government gave to the Bank on Jan. 1. The difference represented the recovery of sterling from 85 francs to 92 francs. As noted above, gold engagements for export to France during the month of June aggregated no less than $108,000,000 and $26,000,000 more represented shipments to Belgium. A large part of the gold now accumulated in France, it is felt, is due to the flight of capital from many countries seeking temporary domicile there and with any permanent return of confidence in other countries much of these balances would be withdrawn in Paris in the form of gold.

There were no special features in the course of the German mark and cable rates on Berlin seemed to follow a course of their own, the tendency most of the month being towards higher levels, even when exchange rates on other Continental centers registered a declining tendency. On June 30 the range for cable transfers on Berlin was 23.77@23.80 which compared with 23.60@23.67 on June 1. Mark quotations, as previously, however were purely nominal, since exchange remained under the strict control of the Bank of Germany. Open market money rates in Berlin were noticably easier although these rates continued far out of line with those prevailing in other large centres. Day loans at the close of June were quoted around 5@6% with private discounts around 4¾%. Despite the recent cuts in central bank rates in other important centres it was not possible to make any change in the rate of the Bank of Germany, since the Bank of Germany is bound by the bank law to fix 5%, its present rate as a minimum whenever its reserve ratio stands below 40%. As of June 23 the ratio was 25.9% and on June 30, 24.1%. For the first quarter of the month the Bank of Germany reported a decrease in gold of 14,300,000 marks, for the second quarter a decrease of 25,914,000 marks, but for the third quarter an increase of 881,000 marks and for the fourth quarter an increase of 8,821,000 marks. The note circulation of the Bank followed the usual course of showing a contraction in the first three quarters of the month, with a sharp increase in the final quarter; for the first quarter the decrease was 71,156,000 marks; for the second quarter 74,003,000 marks and for the third quarter 98,487,000 marks, followed by an increase of 267,290,000 marks in the final quarter.

It was stated that the $90,000,000 credit to the Reichsbank, originally for $100,000,000 and extended in 1931 by the Bank for International Settlements, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the U. S. Federal Reserve System which credit matured on June 4 was being extended for three months by the creditor banks; three months previously the interest rate on the credit, it was stated, had been reduced from 8% to 6%, while as now extended the credit would bear 5% interest. Reports from Paris were that the Bank of France was insisting on another 10% repayment of the principal, but it was understood that no such repayment was made. The Federal Reserve share of the credit amounts to $22,500,000, having been reduced $2,500,000 three months previously. Later in the month news also came of the renewal for one year, subject to a reduction in principal amount from $50,000,000 to $45,000,000, of the credit to the Gold Discount Bank, an affiliate of the Reichsbank. The credit did not fall due until July 1, but the repayment of 10%, it was served would be made on June 14. Confirmation of the statement was given in New York on June 13 by the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., which headed the group of American banks extending the credit.

There were no special features in June in Italian exchange and cable transfers on Italy moved lower in common with the rest of the Continental exchanges, the recession occurring more especially the latter half of the month the same as elsewhere. On June 30 cable transfers on Rome were quoted at 5.09⅛@5.09⅝ as against 5.13½@5.14¼ on June 1. The Greek Government which on May 1 defaulted in the payment of interest on the 40 year 7% sinking fund gold bonds gave notice to the United States Government that Greece would postpone for 2½ years the payment of $130,000 due July 1 on account of principal of her debt. Ogden L. Mills the Secretary of the Treasury made this announcement on June 30 in a statement saying:

"The Greek Government has advised the Treasury that because of recent developments in that country, it has taken advantage of the option granted in paragraph 2 of Part I of the debt funding agreement of May 10 1920, by postponing for a period of two and one-half years from July 1 1932, the payment of the bond in the principal amount of $130,000 due that day. In accordance with the terms of the agreement, the amount of the payment so postponed will bear interest at the rate of 4¼% per annum, payable semi-annually."

The exchanges on the countries neutral during the war were all under the influence of the large gold withdrawals from the United States which were such a conspicuous feature during most of the first half of the month and the subsequent reversal of exchange trends which came on the news that the gold movement had now really terminated. As noted further above $64,000,000 in gold was exported to Switzerland during the month and $24,500,000 to Holland Cable transfers on Switzerland June 30 were down to 19.47 @19.47½ for the Swiss franc, as against 19.58½@19.59½ on June 1. Dutch guilders were quoted at 40.35@40.36¼ June 30 in comparison with 40.54½@40.56½ June 1. On June 17 the range for guilders on cable transfers was as low as 40.32½@40.35. The Scandinavian exchanges also all moved sharply lower, the range for the Danish crown on cable transfers on June 30 being 19.61@19.65 against 20.10@20.20 June 1; the range for the Swedish crown June 30, 18.44@18.50 against 18.93@19.00 on June 1 and the range for the Norwegian crown June 30, 17.70@17.79 against 18.36@18.40 June 1. The Scandinavian exchanges, which usually move in common with the pound sterling, were of course also affected by the sharp decline in the latter. The exceedingly high levels to which both Dutch guilders and Swiss francs had risen was regarded as more artificial than real and was induced by the nervousness of European banking institutions and investors as to the soundness of the dollar. Funds flowed to Holland and Switzerland alike from many quarters and in large volume, seeking safety rather than interest return. The greater part of the foreign funds deposited in these countries brought only the minimum of interest and in most cases none at all. The National Bank of Switzerland gold holdings rose to a point where they provide a gold cover of more than 150% while the gold cover held by the Bank of the Netherlands was reported as just over 100%. The Spanish peseta followed an independent course but without any great fluctuations in rates. There appeared to be growing confidence in the stability of the Spanish Republic and cable transfers on Spain were 8.24@8.25 June 30 against 8.24½@8.26½ on June 1.

Exchanges on South American points continued along their old lines, rates being largely nominal and under the control of foreign exchange committees. It was evident nevertheless that the condition of some of these countries, and particularly the Argentine Republic and Brazil, was slowly improving. On the other hand a new revolt in Chile further complicated exchange conditions as far as that country is concerned. In the case of neither Brazil nor Argentina, however, was there any change of consequence in the nominal rates prevailing and the Chilean rate also ruled unaltered at purely nominal figures.

Exchange rates on the Far Eastern countries also were devoid of any important new features. The course of silver of course is the controlling feature as far as the silver using countries are concerned and the price of this metal continued weak during June with only an occasional upward rally. In London the price per ounce June 30 was 16⅝d. against 16-15/16d. at the close of May, though on three or four days of the month the price was quoted as high as 17d. The quotation for the Hong-kong dollar on checks was 22.96 @23-5/16 June 30 against 23.56@24.06 June 1, while the quotation for the Shanghai tael on checks was 29.31@ 29.88 June 30 against 30.78@31.38 on June 1. Rupees on Bombay receded on the decline in the pound sterling and the rate for checks June 30 was 26.91@27.13 against 27.45@ 27.75 on June 1. The Japanese yen was decidedly weak all through the month and checks on Yokohama June 30 were 27.10@27.50 against 32.15@32.45 June 1. Dispatches from Tokyo stated that the "flight of capital" bill creating a currency control commission over which the Finance Minister has final authority had been passed by the House of Peers and was now law. Wide powers of seizure and supervision it is stated are provided to prevent investment of Japanese funds abroad when in the opinion of the Government such investment imperils the financial security of the nation. The limit of the Bank of Japan's note issue was raised from 120,000,000 yen to 800,000,000 yen, laying a basis for great inflation. Yen exchange became noticeably soft after these announcements.

The tables on pages 16 to 38 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during June and range since Jan. 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.

General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges, but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

	Page		Page		Page
Steam Railroad Bonds	69	Public Utility Bonds	75	Insurance Stocks and Scrip	86-112
Steam Railroad Stocks	73	Public Utility Stocks	80	Real Estate Trust and Land Stocks	87
Joint Stock Land Bank Bonds	91	Industrial & Miscellaneous Bonds	83	Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Stocks	87
Joint Stock Land Bank Stocks	91	Industrial & Miscellaneous Stocks	87	United States and Municipal Bonds	92
Federal Land Bank Bonds	92	Exchange Seats	85	Canadian Municipal Bonds	94
Real Estate Bonds	100	Textile Manufacturing Stocks	86	Foreign Government Bonds	93
Investment Trust Stocks and Bonds	74	Mining Stocks	86

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for equipment bonds are based on average maturities

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained The custom however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on.

Note.—Owing to the present demoralized condition of the municipal bond markets, brokers and dealers find it difficult, and in many cases, almost impossible to make quotations for municipal bonds. Bid prices, especially for the smaller municipalities, are practically out of the question and sales or terms are simply a matter of bargaining between buyer and seller. In fact the absolute lack of demand often causes good bonds to be offered at almost any price.

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue. though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.
